—COAL STRIKERS—

Return Ordered By FDR

..as Commander-In-Chief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, today directed all striking anthracite coal miners to go back to work at once.

He said that if they failed to comply with his directive in 48 hours, the government would take the necessary steps to protect the security of the nation against a strike which comes at a time of a shortage of fuel in war time.

5,000 Return.

Some 5,000 striking miners returned to their jobs in Pennsylvania's anthracite field today in the largest back-to-work movement since the wildcat walkout began three weeks ago.

(However, about 12,350 insurgents still remained idle.)

The chief executive issued his order in telegrams to officials of the United Mine Workers of America, national and local.

The parent body has emphasized the strike is unauthorized.

The telegram said:

Text Of Telegram.

"On Friday, Jan. 15, 1943, the national war labor board issued a directive order calling upon all miners on strike in the anthracite coal field to return to work immediately. I have been informed that several thousand miners refused to obey the order of the war labor board and are still out on strike.

"In the interest of the war effort, all directive orders of the national war labor board must be complied with by all employers and all employes.

"Therefore, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, I direct all miners in the anthracite coal fields who are now out on strike to return at once to their job of producing vitally needed coal for their country. If this order is not complied with in forty-eight hours, your government will take the necessary steps to protect the security of the nation against a strike which is doing serious injury to the war effort."

Session Salary Bills Are Signed

...11 New Measures

Maintaining its established stride, the unicameral legislature heard 11 new bills Tuesday while it notched several other measures up a peg.

LB 4, which provides for a mill levy on each dollar of actual valuation for the flood control of Salt Creek, moved on enrollment and review, final.

So did LB26, which provides that government loans shall not be considered in applying the limitation that a bank may loan.

Meanwhile, the two appropriation bills which allow a combined total of $121,500 for salaries and expenses of this session became law with Governor Dwight Griswold's signature.

Two minor measures, LB7 and 37, were advanced from general file. Four other bills were held up, however, because the necessary amendments had not been supplied for the inspection of the group.

A bill presented by Senator H. G. Greenamyre, Norfolk, chairman of the appropriations committee, would direct the board of control to close the Nebraska industrial home at Milford.

This would be done as rapidly as the physical condition of inmates permits. Provided also would be the hospitalization in public or private hospitals for inmates needing such aid.

Senator John Doyle, Greeley, authored a bill which would prohibit sale of fireworks outside the corporate village or cities. Violation would be deemed a misdemeanor.

Some Relief From Cold Is Foreseen

—31 AT CREIGHTON

The mercury in Lincoln rose above the zero mark at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday, for the first time in 44 hours, as the first signs of a break in the cold wave appeared.

The weather bureau said it would be not quite so cold in the central and west portions of the state Tuesday night and Wednesday forenoon. Continued cold for the extreme eastern section of Nebraska was forecast. Lincoln's low Tuesday morning was -13, the coldest of the season.

Coldest spot in the state Tuesday morning was Creighton, in northeast Nebraska, where the theremometer registered 31 below.

No Blocked Roads.

Morning temperature readings—lowest of the season—included 27 below at Norfolk, 25 below at North Platte, and 22 below at Valentine and Kearney. Readings were below zero for practically the entire state.

Chadron, in the extreme northwest portion, reported clear skies and a zero reading Tuesday morning, after rain, sleet, snow and subzero temperatures as low as -28.

Because little snow fell, highway traffic and communications were not impaired. Some drifting occurred on roads, but none was blocked, the state highway department said.

Fuel Demand Heavy.

The cold wave brought increased demands on fuel oil and coal dealers. Fuel oil consumers, their supply rationed, hoped that

—RESOLUTION—

Unanimous Vote Asks Norris To Address Solons

A resolution to request former Senator George W. Norris to visit and address the Nebraska legislature was adopted unanimously Tuesday by the unicameral.

Don Hanna, legislator from Brownlee, offered the resolution and said:

"I think it would be most fitting to have the 'father' of the unicameral come here and address us."

Senator George Cravens, Lincoln, remarked:

"George Norris is one of the greatest statesmen to come from Nebraska. I'll say I opposed him vigorously on some of his power plans, but it would be a great tribute to have him here."

Senator Harry Foster, Omaha, told the group he didn't vote for Norris, "but it would be a great honor for us to have him come and address the unicameral."

"Not only has he served the state, but he is the father of this legislature," spoke Senator Harry Gantz, Alliance.

The former senator now is on his way to his home in McCook Press dispatches credited him with saying Monday that he probably would not come to Lincoln because of train connections.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—The navy announced today that American submarines had sunk an enemy destroyer and four other ships—two cargo, one transport and one patrol vessel—in the Pacific.

Navy communique No. 255, said:

"Pacific and Far East:

"(A) One destroeyr sunk.
"(B) One large cargo ship sunk.
"(C) One medium-sized transport sunk.
"(D) One medium-sized cargo ship sunk.
"(E) One small patrol vessel sunk.
"(F) One large tanker damaged.
"(G) One small cargo ship damaged.

"2. These actions have not been announced in any previous navy department communique.

Subs' Record Excellent.

A naval spokesman declined to identify specifically any of the areas in which the successful undersea raids were made but said in response to questions that if sinkings of Japanese ships in the Solomon islands by American submarines had been accomplished in the period covered by this communique they would be included.

—SENATE HEARING—

Swift, Lincoln Oil Dealer, Raps OPA Fuel Ruling

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 19—(AP)—Classification of oil as a major essential industry for the war's duration was advocated today before a special senate committee probing the mid-west fuel problem, as one of the steps the government should take to ease the nation's fuel problem.

Before Senator Clyde M. Reed (R-Kas), the only member of the committee present, began hearing the producers, S. S. Swift, a Lincoln, Neb., coal and oil dealer, gave a retailer's view on fuel, incluling "all the annoyances, unfairness, injustices and inequalities of oil rationing."

"Early in 1942," he said, "the government urged the nation to store up fuel during the summer months for the following winter We realized that this was one year when we could aid the government, serve our people to the best advantage, and promote our business.

"As a result, on Sept. 1, we had in our customer's storage tanks, in our own tanks, and in leased tanks, our entire winter's requirement. When rationing was forced upon us we could hardly believe our ears. We had enough oil already in Lincoln to supply all of our trade with 100 per cent of their normal season's requirements.

Red Tape Assailed.

"Since rationing came in we have had to double the personnel of our office, and it works nights and Sundays, only to get farther behind all the time trying to fill in the forms and meet the regulations forced upon us."

Swift said that on Jan. 8, Dwight Felton, OPA director for Nebraska, ordered that the industrial and business plants of Lincoln convert immediately to coal.

At the same time, he said, Harold Gray, of the solid fuel coordinator's office, warned of a coal shortage; that a million tons would have to be brought in, probably from Illinois and Kentucky.

"Now our stores, office buildings, commercial and industrial plants use a heavy black fuel oil," Swift amplified, "and our residences use a light oil. The OPA prohibition on the use of the heavy oil in business and industry will not add one gallon of usable oil for any Lincoln home."

"If these users of heavy oil carry out the OPA order, it will cost them from $500 to $5,000 ach, to convert from oil, a fuel that is available in Lincoln, to coal ,a fuel that another government tagency says we cannot obtain."

LENINGRAD SIEGE ENDS — Here is Leningrad, second largest city in Russia, finally freed after being besieged for 17 desperate months.

AXIS LOST 500,000 IN RUSS OFFENSIVES

LONDON, Jan. 19—(INS)—Germany and her satellites lost 500,000 killed, wounded and taken prisoner in the present series of Russian offensives, a British military authority estimated today.

The Hungarians had nine divisions, of which six were badly mauled, he said. The Italians had 10, and of these seven or eight were cut to pieces, while the Rumanians had about 20 divisions, of which 16 no longer are fighting.

17 MONTHS OF SIEGE

By J. E. LAWRENCE.

Tuesday, January 19, 1943.

UNCHECKED Tuesday by axis arms was the mounting tide of united nations success on the battlefields of Russia, north Africa, and the southwest Pacific. All three areas of action competed with each other to turn in the most cheering news. It was a race Tuesday which ended in a virtual draw—for in all three widely-separated areas the united nations were doing well—very well—and their armed forces were going "great guns."

* * *

DIVIDENDS TO RUSSIAN SPIRIT—There was one development so significant. The nazi iron ring around Leningrad has been broken after 17 months of siege. It was broken when furiously-battling soviet forces overcame the nazi garrison of the fortress city of Schuesselburg. It was the tormenting thorn in the side of the Russian armies of Leningrad and the Dolkhov. But in all of the rejoicing it should be remembered that Leningrad is not yet entirely free—the Germans and Finns hold siege lines on three sides of the great city which a former Russian czar chose as the site of his capital.

* * *

FOOD RUSHED IN—The fortress of Schuesselburg was the lock of Hitler's steel ring to the east of Leningrad. Its recapture broke that ring and opened up a corridor along the southern shore of frozen Lake Ladoga. Relief for a desperate and hungry garrison at Leningrad was immediate. The moment contact had been established between the defenders of the city and the armies of relief, trains bearing munitions and even more important food supplies poured into the former capital of Russia.

* * *

NO APPEAL TO IMAGINATION—Where the struggle for Stalingrad captivated the imagination of hundreds of millions of people, the infinitely longer siege of Leningrad—three times longer than the fighting at Stalingrad—went unnoted. It was the difference between the living and the dead. Leningrad's (Petrograd, and even earlier St. Petersburg) glory was in the past—Stalingrad's lies in the future. And Stalingrad, on the banks of a fabled stream—fabled in history song, and folklore—was better known to most Americans to whom the Volga is Russia.

* * *

SINCE AUGUST OF '41—It was in the closing days of August, 1941, that Hitler's gray-clad warriors pounded to the crest of the hills and the woods which are the rim of Leningrad. Their powerful field glasses could sight at some points the shining, white towers of Leningrad's larger buildings. Here was a city, Peter the Great said, which could be defended. It could, and it was, against all that the most powerful mechanized army of history could do. It could forge a band of steel around Leningrad—north, east, south, and west—but it could not draw that band together to crush the life and the spirit of more than three million soldier and civilian defenders.

* * *

ESSENTIAL PRODUCTION—Unfortunately, for full understanding, Leningrad has suffered in relation to other Russian regions. Its importance as a production center has not been emphasized. And yet its factories produce 20 per cent of some of the most essential peace and war requirements of all Russia. The bodies of a half million nazi soldiers rotting amid the ice and snow and the rains and sun on the approaches to Leningrad establish that Hitler and his general staff knew its sentimental and its material and its military value if peoples of the united nations did not.

* * *

MUCH STILL REMAINS—Leningrad's fight, embracing the greatest defensive stand of the present war, and one of the epic sieges of all history, still leaves much to be done right there before it is wholly free. There is much necessarily bitter-contested territory to be swept clear of the invader before all of the railroads which link it to Moscow and to the north are re-opened. But at Leningrad, and Stalingrad, curiously, the two Russian cities bearing the names of the two men who created modern Russia, the spiritual reserves of Russia's great strength give a tonic which

Sale Of 'Strong Beer' at Lincoln Air Base Flayed

...At Annual Meeting

Allied dry forces of Nebraska heard speakers denounce the alleged sale of "strong" beer near and in army bases and in the Lincoln air base in particular at the annual meeting held Tuesday at the Lincoln Y. W. C. A.

Bishop W. C. Martin of Omaha presided over a luncheon discussion which State Executive Director Harold Wilson and Dr. F. M. Gregg, severely scored the attitude of the government and army toward supplying beer to soldiers. Following the luncheon, the annual business meeting was held.

Speaking at the noon luncheon, Bishop Martin said "the day will come when legislation against the sale of beverage alcohol will be passed in our national economy, but I will not say when.

May Get "Worse."

"In all probability the situation will get a great deal worse before it gets better," he continued.

Bishop Martin said... "by the use of true religion and sound education it will be possible to reach and convert the individuals who, in the large, will settle this problem."

"We do not believe that we have a drunken army", State Director Wilson said, "but when the Office of War Information comes out with a statement that drinking it no longer a problem because 3.2 beer is sold in the post exchanges, it is too much for the credulity of many citizens."

Calling the recent report of the OWI an "insult to the intelligence of the American public", he asserted it "seems to make the great United States government an enthusiastic endorser of beer as a beverage".

Report Unsigned.

Mr. Wilson noted that the report was unsigned and he proceeded to attack its statements

Leningrad Set Free

...Reds Batter Nazis Back On 1,200-Mile Front

(By the Associated Press.)

Allied sledge hammer blows shook the axis on three fronts in World war II today.

1. In Libya, the British Eighth army was reported "in contact" with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered Africa corps near Tarhuna, only 40 miles from the big axis base at Tripoli, after a lighting advance inland across the desert.

A second British column striking along the Coastal road had passed through the enemy strongholds at Misurata and Garibaldi and reached Zliten, 90 miles east of Tripoli.

Once again, it appeared, Rommel was in headlong retreat with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's army in hot pursuit.

17-Month Siege Lifted.

2. In Russia, the red armies of the north lifted the epic 17-month-old siege of Leningrad, former czarist capital, after recapturing the ancient nazi-held fortress of Schluesselburg, killing 13,000 Germans, routing four divisions and demolishing 470 enemy strong points.

Schluesselburg lies 22 miles east of Leningrad on the south shore of Lake Ladoga.

At the same time, Russia's southern armies surged forward within 108 miles of Kharkov, the "Ukraine Pittsburgh," killed 2,600 more Germans in 24 hours in the battle to annihilate 50,000 survivors of the nazi siege armies before Stalingrad, and sharply increased the threat to the great German base at Rostov.

Sanananda Captured.

3. In New Guinea, allied field headquarters announced that American and Australian troops had captured two vital Japanese strongholds—Sanananda Point and Sanananda village—in the closing phases of a drive to exterminate the remnants of a 15,000-man Japanese army.

Allied seizure of the coastal end of the enemy-held Papuan corridor left the remaining enemy forces in three tightly-enveloped pockets half a mile to two miles inland.

On the Libyan front, British headquarters announced that Gen Montgomery's forces were now attacking the axis toward Tarhuna 40 miles from Tripoli, after routing the enemy from Beni Ulid and inflicting losses in a tank battle.

Beni Ulid lies 100 miles southeast of Tripoli.

Tripoli Under Assault.

Dispatches from Cairo said British vanguards were now within 50 miles of Tripoli, or closer than Rommel came to suc-

'Integrity' Of All Legislators Sought In Osborne Measure

...Report On Finances

Senator Tom Osborne, Bayard, would have all unicameral nominees and members "above suspicion."

In a measure he had introduced to the legislature Tuesday, Senator Osborne called for three reports:

1. All candidates within 10 days after the last filing day would be required to file with the secretary of state and the county clerk of each county in his district a certified report showing all income and disbursements from January 1 last, to the filing date.

2. Every nominee within 10 days before the general election would have to file similar reports for the period of Jan. 1 last, to October 15 of the same year.

3. All members would, by Feb. 1, be required to file like reports covering the period of Jan. 1 last, to Dec. 31, inclusive.

The penalty for failure to provide the reports would be a fine of $1,000 or less, the action to be brought in the name of the state by the attorney general.

Osborne explained that he looked upon the removal of party designations after the names of men running for the legislature as a move to do away with partisan politics, and his proposed bill is another step to eliminate any suspicion the voters might have.

School Funds Deficit Stirs New Tax Bill

...Garber Measure Asks ⅛th Mill Levy

With the primary purpose of wiping out the $685,566 deficit in the permanent school funds, Senator Daniel Garber, Red Cloud, introduced a bill Tuesday which would levy an eighth of a mill tax on all property for a period of four years.

"This levy, based on current valuations, would raise approximately $900,000 during the four years," the veteran legislator stated.

"Should there be any funds left over, then I propose such to go toward construction of a library for the state historical society."

Senator Garber was chairman of the legislative investigating committee two years ago which uncovered the situation in the permanent school funds and made it public.

Time was so short when the discovery was made that it was impossible to introduce a measure at that time.

The senator pointed out that his bill is an enabling act only and that the next session of the unicameral would have to appropriate the money from the sinking fund for the permanent school fund.

A similar procedure would have been repeated four years hence when appropriations would need to be made for the school fund and the proposed historical building.

Miss Beattie Resigns; Teacher At LHS Since 1909

Miss Ethel B. Beattie, since 1906 a member of the Lincoln school system, and since 1909 a full-time teacher of Latin at Lincoln high school, has offered her resignation effective in June 1943, it was announced at the school board meeting Tuesday morning.

In accepting her resignation, the board expressed regret losing Miss Beattie's service, and sent an official expression of appreciation for her long service.

Miss Beattie's letter to Supt. Leffer said, in part, "I have decided to cease teaching at the end of this school year. I am therefore sending this as my resignation to take effect in June, 1943.

"I wish at the same time to express my appreciation of the courteous treatment and the consideration I have always received from you and the Lincoln board of education during all my years of teaching in Lincoln high school."

Other resignations accepted by the board included those of Elsie Buxman, effective January 16. Dean E. Taylor, assistant custodian at Lincoln high school, effective January 16, Robert A. Silverman, assistant custodian, Lincoln high school, effective January 15, and Clearance F. Rupert, assistant custodian at Lincoln high school, effective January 12.

New employes of the Lincoln schools approved by the board were Miss Margaret McCutchan, full time regular teacher, beginning Monday January 18; Robert D. Hustig, assistant custodian; Mrs. Elsie Crawford, assistant custodian; and John Vick, first asisstant custodian at Capitol school, all effective Jan. 18.

Curtailment Of Draft Is Being Urged

...BY SEN. THOMAS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Declaring he had heard that plans are under way to increase the armed forces to a total of 12,000,000 men, Senator Thomas (D.—Okla.) called for a draft curtailment today until congress is told just how large an army is needed to win the war.

Thomas, chairman of an appropriations subcommittee handling war department bills, told reporters he favored delaying any further large increases in the size of the army "until we can take an accounting of the needs."

Need Every Pilot.

"I think we ought to have every pilot and every mechanic we can get," he declared, "but I doubt that we need to have many more men in the infantry, for instance, than we have now."

Thomas said he would raise this question at a meeting of democratic members of the appropriations committee which Acting Chairman McKellar (D.—Tenn.) plans to call soon to discuss policy questions.

The Oklahoman questioned whether the armed forces could be built up to 12,000,000 without causing a serious dislocation in all phases of war production, including the growing of food.

Farm Drain Big Concern.

President Roosevelt told congress on Jan. 7 that the armed forces had grown from 2,000,000 to 7,000,000,000 in one year, adding that despite the withdrawal of 5,000,000 from the food and factory fronts, the greatest quantity of food in the country's history had been produced.

The drain on farm workers has caused the greatest concern in congress and was reported to have been discussed by a group of senators who met yesterday with Brig. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, chief of war department's legislative and liaison division.

McKellar meanwhile, introduced a bill which would declare specifically that federal employment was not a ground for draft deferment.

City Mission Holds Annual Meeting; Directors Named

Three new members were elected for three-year terms to the executive committee of the People's City Mission at the annual meeting Monday night. They are: E. F. Estes, of First Plymouth Congregational church; R. M. Hansen, of Grace Lutheran church; and Rev. C. L. Van Metre of Epworth Methodist church.

The annual financial report revealed that a reduction of $373.82 in total expenditures was achieved during 1942. In 1941 the Mission operated at a cost of $9,726.80, compared with $9,352.98 in 1942.

Speaker at the meeting was Lieut. Thomas Payne, Lincoln air base chaplain. Lieut. Payne discussed the army's methods of taking care of the spiritual needs of the soldiers.

Tells Improvements.

George Chenot, superintendent of the Mission, discussed the various changes and improvements made during the past year, among which are the establishment of a reading-recreation room, social room, dining room and transient room.

The business session was presided over by President W. E. Bell, chairman of the executive committee.

Music was furnished by the Mission Ladies' chorus, and a play, "His Wayside Messengers," was given by 30 members of the Sunday school.

The People's City Mission, "the mission of the churches," was organized in 1907. Since 1923 it has been a member agency of the Community Chest, and receives its support from that source. The Mission is governed by a board of trustees composed of pastors and representatives from the churches.

The members of the executive committee for the past year have been W. E. Bell, F. E. Peter, C. F. Theobald, Rev. C. F. Brost, John M. Jones, F. E. Linch, F. A. Anderson, T. A. Williams, and Dr. H. C. Leopold.

New Economic Program For World After War Vital, Avers Douglas

"An entire reorganization of the world's economic progra mmust take place before real peace can be fully realized," Ron Douglas declared, as he spoke on peace conditions after the war at a meeting of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power club Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

"We must co-operate not only in groups, but our functions must be world-wide," he said. "The little man should be considered in this program, and the policy of the government should be reliable leadership.

"Unless this goal is kept in view the settlement will break down within a few years, as was the case in 1918," he said.

—short session?

Four Reasons Given Why Griswold's Hope Fades.

It may take a long time...

Talk of a short session for the 1943 Nebraska unicameral legislature has dwindled just about as fast as the falling mercury.

Why? Here are four good reasons:

1—"We have a great bunch of 'talkers' this session," admits one senator. "Also, some of the legislators who were here two years ago have just found their voices for the first time."

2—And all the talking has led directly to several minor squabbles that have taken up time more than anything else.

3—Some 140 bills have been introduced to date. But that isn't all. Bill Drafter Walter James is working on 100 additional measures. The bill-inroducing period is just a shade over half-way complete. The avalanche will start just any day now.

4—The practice of killing a bill 'in committee' doesn't seem to exist. More than ever before, a "reported out to general file" tag is being attached. That spells trouble in the future.

It may take a long time.

48-Hour Week Consideration To Be Delayed

...To Committee First

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Senate leaders indicated today that immediate consideration of a 48-hour standard work week would be blocked when Senator Reed (R-Kas), author of the proposal, attempts to call it up within the next two weeks.

Reed told reporters before he left for a fortnight of fuel hearings in the midwest that he would seek consideration of the bill on the senate floor when he returns. For that reason, he said, he had asked that it "lie on the table," thus keeping it out of the education and labor committee, which he called "the graveyard of such bills."

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky told the senate yesterday, however, that the bill, which would start overtime pay after 48 instead of 40 hours, should be referred to the committee. Republican Leader McNary of Oregon agreed with him. They also agreed to wait until Reed's return before having the bill sent to the committee, so that he could speak on it.

Promise Fair Consideration.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), a member of the committee, told reporters he was "sure the bill would receive fair consideration and would be acted on with dispatch."

The judiciary committee, meanwhile, is taking a hand in legislation affecting labor. Chairman Van Nuys (D-Ind) has appointed a subcommittee to consider two measures introduced by Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex).

One is a proposed "freedom to work" amendment to the constitution, whereby "no person shall be denied employment because of membership in or affiliation with or resignation from a labor union, or because of refusal to join or affiliate with a labor union." It would forbid closed shop contracts.

The other O'Daniel proposal would outlaw "the use of force or violence, or threats thereof, to prevent or attempt to prevent any person from engaging in any lawful vocation."

Without commenting directly on the O'Daniel proposals, Van Nuys said, "I think that if these strikes continue something ought to be done about passing labor legislation."

Senator Chandler (D-Ky), a member of the subcommittee, declared that "either strikes must be settled, or the government has no alternative but to take over.

—"THANKLESS" TASK—

Price Job Is Begun By Brown

..No Immediate Changes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(INS)—Ex-Senator Prentiss M. Brown, of Michigan, today plunged into the "thankless" task of being the nation's watch-dog on prices with the pledge that there will be no immediate radical changes in the price and rationing policies of OPA.

"There has been talk of a plan of mine to reorganize the whole setup," he sad. "That's not so. At least there'll be no changes of that sort until I've had time to study the need for it and then there will be no change unless it is needed."

Brown said that he expects to be sworn in the middle or latter part of the week. Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, close friend of Brown, is expected to administer the oath of office to the 53-year-old native of St. Ignace, Mich., as director of the office of price administration.

The new OPA chief conferred today with his predecessor—tough, outspoken Leon Henderson, whose proudest boast is that he has held the price line, despite the political pressure which finally contributed to his resignation. Henderson is expected to leave soon for an extended vacation in South America.

Bonus meats in the menu

There's no need of too much worry about making your meat allowance stretch when there are all those delicious bonus meats that can be had (at least at this writing). I speak of sundry meats such as liver, heart, kidney, pigs' feet and all those extras that don't come in on the meat quota.

As far as nutritional value goes, they have everything that other meats have, and in most cases, more too. Liver, heart, and kidney are right on top of the list when it comes to contributing iron to the diet. They're vitamin foods, too, for they contain vitamins A, B, C, and some D.

If you've built up a psychological resistance toward them, it is most likely because you've probably never tried them. But if you like chicken giblets, then you're bound to like these bonus meats.

MOCK GIBLET NOODLES — Saute small pieces of liver or kidney or precooked heart in hot shortening. Make a sauce out of the pan drippings or use mushroom sauce and add meat and sauce to hot noodles. Don't pass judgment on sundries until you've tried this dish.

SPANISH KIDNEY—Remove white centers and tubes of kidneys, slice into thin slices, brown quickly in hot shortening along with chopped onion. Cover with tomato sauce or canned tomatoes and steam for about 15 minutes. Serve with rice or spaghetti.

BAKED LIVER CASSEROLE — Place liver slices in a greased casserole, top with sliced, tart apples and sliced onion, season to taste. Add bacon drippings or other meat drippings if you have them, and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for about 1½ hours or until liver is tender. Remove cover during the last 10 minutes.

BAKED HEART—Wash heart, remove arteries and veins. Simmer slowly in water until tender, adding 1 tsp. salt for each quart of water when half done. Allow about 2 hours for calf, lamb, and pork hearts and about 3 to 3½ hours for beef hearts. Stuff precooked heart with your favorite dressing, and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 30 minutes or until hearts are well browned.

LIVER BURGERS—Grind uncooked liver, using the coarse knife of the grinder, add about ⅓ as much bread crumbs, chopped onions and seasonings to taste. Add enough beaten egg or evaporated milk to bind mixture, shape into patties and fry quickly. Grand with whole kernel corn.

Sauerkraut adds variety

Sauerkraut and pork, like ham and eggs, have long been associated. Funny how foods become linked with one another and are never given a break along other lines. Sauerkraut, for instance, has that same smacking goodness when used with other meats, or as a vegetable combination or in salads. Just to prove our point, we'll pass along a few of our own ideas that have come in for their share of praise.

SAUERKRAUT WITH LIVER DUMPLINGS—Like something downright delicious in an old fashioned way? Then add chopped precooked liver to dumpling dough and drop on boiling sauerkraut. Cover tightly and steam 12 minutes without peeking. Serve immediately. Make a generous amount, because the family'll be asking for seconds.

LIMA BEAN-SAUERKRAUT CASSEROLE—Combine about 2 cups cooked lima beans, 1 cup of bread crumbs, 1 cup of sauerkraut in a greased casserole. Season to taste. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 1 hour.

MOLDED SAUERKRAUT SALAD—When making molded vegetable salads, add a helping of drained sauerkraut. The zest and chewiness will win high favor. Shredded carrots and sauerkraut is a special favorite.

HOT POTATO-SAUERKRAUT SALAD—Make your favorite hot potato salad. Stir in about a third as much sauerkraut, heated of course, and serve. It's delicious chilled, too.

They Were Expendable

By W. L. WHITE

Admiral Amazed at Lieutenant Kelly's Accuracy in Navigating Little Craft Through Night Minus Detailed Charts. MacArthur Promises Silver Star for Gallantry to Every Officer Having Part in Speeding Him Through Enemy Infested Waters to Safety. Kelly's Boat Goes on Coral Reef.

Chapter 16.

"Shortly thereafter we were supposed to make a landfall—an island about half a mile square, at which point we must turn in order to make the final landfall which would bring us into port.

"With such a wind and sea, we were proably retarded, but by how much? I had to guess at it. Also the helmsman was having a wrestling match with the wheel—it was all he could do to keep within ten degrees on either side of the compass course—which meant a possible error of twenty degrees. We missed the island entirely in the dark, and from then on until dawn I changed course as I thought necessary. Dawn came at six and we saw land ahead, a point which I thought was the peninsula just west of Cagayan, our destination. I showed it to the Admiral, and he shook his head with satisfaction.

"'Good navigation, Kelly,' he said. 'I wouldn't have believed it possible.' But it was beginning to calm down now—we could open up to thirty knots, and our passengers began to show a restored interest in life, getting up off the floor and straightening their rumpled uniforms for entering port. The Admiral and I on the bridge were presently visited by an air-corps general, who looked around and told us he was sure we were lost.

"'Have you ever been to Cagayan before, General?' asked the Admiral.

"'Flown over it twice. That point ahead there is sixty miles to the west of Cagayan.'

"I'd never been there before, but I was fairly sure of my navigation. Also I'd spent the night peering at what few landmarks there were—not lying on the floor. Anyway I wasn't going off on any tangents, investigating someone else's ideas, so I stuck to my story.

"But now the Admiral was doubtful again. 'Kelly, I'm going to take back what I said. I'll say it's a nice landfall when we tie up—if we ever do.'

"We were up to top speed now, carbon burned from the motors, and at 6:30 we sighted the light on the point at Cagayan's entrance. We slowed to let the 41 boat lead the way, as it had the channel charts.

"General Sharp, commanding officer of the island of Mindanao, was down to meet us, and as soon as we could see the pier we woke up General MacArthur," said Bulkeley. "He shook the salt water out of his gold general's cap, flipped it on his head—somehow it always lands at a jaunty angle, seems to go with his cane—and looked around with his jaw set—a fine figure of a soldier.

"Then he said to me, 'Bulkeley, I'm giving every officer and man here the Silver Star for gallantry. You've taken me out of the jaws of death, and I won't forget it!'

"Still later that afternoon he told me: 'If the boats never accomplish anything more and were burned now, they'd have earned their keep a thousand times over. If possible, when I get to Melbourne I'll get you and your key men out.'

"We arrived on the thirteenth. Four flying fortresses from Australia were supposed to have met the General. One cracked up on the take-off, two came down in the Australian desert, and the one which finally arrived had supercharger trouble and had to turn around and go back without any passengers, so MacArthur didn't get away until the eighteenth.

"We told the crews to keep quiet, not to let it get out whom we'd brought in, so the Japs wouldn't find out and maybe attack while MacArthur was waiting."

"The afternoon we arrived," said Kelly, "Bulkeley told us what MacArthur had said about getting us out if he could. It was good news, but we weren't exactly excited. For if the air force couldn't get even one serviceable plane up here from Australia to take MacArthur out, what chance had we?

"Our job, I knew, would be to fight out the war in the southern islands—with torpedoes while we had them, and on land with rifles when they were expended. So better not get our hopes up.

"The boats were to be anchored off the beach, and before I left mine, I told my executive officer to check on the anchor—we were close to the beach and there was a lot of surf pounding the coral. Just to make doubly sure, I went on the forecastle for a last inspection myself. The line seemed taut. I tugged to make sure, and it came loose in my hand.

"'Start the engines immediately.' They were started in thirty seconds, but five seconds later there was a grinding scrape—one propeller had hit bottom. The other engine conked out, and when we did get it going it was too late, the waves were slapping at us broadside, each breaker driving us farther and farther on the beach.

"I yelled over to the 41 boat to get under way and give us a tow but by the time we'd tied her line onto ours, we were stuck-hard and fast. We worked furiously four hours until the tide had gone out, and by midnight we were solid as concrete, in water so shallow that now there were only three feet of water aft and less than a foot forward. Impossible to get off that night. I went to bed disgusted.

"Next morning I was up at five and there she was high and dry except for six inches of water at her stern, and a crowd of natives gawking. It all happened because the anchor shackle had parted—the threads stripped. It was the old story—continuous usage and no replacement of parts.

"Since the MTB's didn't have the power to get us off, I finally found a sergeant in charge of an army launch powered by a ninety-horsepower Japanese Diesel and asked him for a tow. High tide was at 8:30. The little launch strained, puffed-lines parted—and at ten o'clock it broke off the tug's towing post entirely, so that was out.

"Sunday, we were again up at dawn. We had persuaded the army to lend us a sergeant and a working party of native troops, and we started digging and pounding away at the coral the propellers and rudders had chewed into.

Bulkeley came around at 7:30. 'Frankly, Kelly,' he said, 'you'll have a hell of a time to get her off. I'm afraid we'll have to blow her up if the enemy comes. She's certainly done her part, but this may be the end. I've got to go to Del Monta. However, keep working. It's up to you.'

"I called the crew into the forward compartment and told them the skipper had left it up to us. I talked about what the old boat had done to date with them in it sunk two ships and two landing boats. So now, were we going to let this be her end—sit by and watch the surf pound her to pieces? Or were we going to get her off?

"'You're damn right we're going to get her off!' they said, and someone suggested maybe we could hire work gang of natives to help us, whereupon the whole crowd started pulling money out of their pockets and piling it on the table. They'd had no pay since the start of the war, but since they'd been down here in Mindanao, they'd had shore leave and a chance to play poker with the army. The government could cut the cost of the war by just paying the army and then giving the sailors a chance to play poker with them.

"We hired what men we could, and all of us got to work with them digging out those razor-sharp coral boulders with our naked hands. But there were other boulders fifty yards out. We got some dynamite and worked all one afternoon pounding holes in them and blowing them up. With our money we hired natives driving carabao to pull pieces away, at the rate of one peso for the native and another for the carabao.

Minerva's MAIL

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES to— MINERVA

Salve For The Wound

If Roger has been smarting from the sting of Decent Reader's letter in last Friday's paper, this letter from Bessie will be more than welcome. I am sure it will be more than welcome anyway, because Bessie has been popular among the Mail friends for a number of years, in spite of the fact that some of them vigorously disagree with her from time to time. Dear Minerva:

When I sent you a Christmas card very early I expected to return to California before the holidays as I then wrote you, but alas! "Man proposes and God disposes." Sometimes I think the devil does some of the disposing. I have had considerable trouble with my property; disposed of one piece and wish I was rid of all of it but hope to return to the west within a few weeks at most.

I did one thing I am sorry for and for which I should be ashamed of myself though I meant no harm. I persuaded my sister-in-law to leave her children with her parents and visit here for a fortnight. She is a California born and reared girl and had never seen snow except upon the distant mountain tops and that is now as near as she ever cares to get to it. She stayed here four days and went back. She said she could not conceive a more terrible climate with the side-walks and streets as slick as glass and everybody staggering and stumbling around in an effort to stand up just like they were drunk and that this place was only fit for bears and indians to live in. We spent Christmas day at the home of friends and they had several soldiers from the air base for dinner; the boys were from the south and every one of them said they thought the climate here was terrible; they even went so far as to say they would rather be killed in the war than to return if they had to live here. Yet some people find fault with California when the worst that can be said about it is they have a little fog and rain there.

But this is not to be a prolonged discussion of the merits and demerits of various parts of the country. The real reason for writing is to convey to Roger my deep and sincere appreciation of his wonderful letter. I read and reread it many times and cried over it aplenty. It was so sweet, so kind and thoughful of you to mention my poor, dead brother who was killed in France during the first World war, and I can easily visualize the scenes that must have transpired in the New York home of the soldier boy you so kindly befriended when his parents received the terrible news that his airplane did not return from a flight over France. I know full well what the reecipt of that kind of news can do to a home; even the bright sunshine seems to suddenly turn into darkness, and thousands of American homes are now trying to bear up under such news already and thousands more of them will receive the same fateful message before right finally triumphs over wrong and when the last shot has been fired and the last cannon has again grown cold, we must be upon our guard as we never were before to see that a lot of possibly well meaning but short-sighted and soft-hearted old goodies-goodies, full of "Forgive and forget" ideas do not again give to the world another one of their so-called "Just peaces." Let it be a case of where the sword violently triumphs over the sword and that those who were guilty of bringing this terrible calamity upon the world are punished, "Even unto the third and fourth generation" and I proudly add and even far beyond.

Again I say it was darling of you Roger to remember my brother and to speak so beautifully of him, and you spent the money the young soldier's father rewarded you with in the proper manner. If the young soldier could speak to you today no doubt he would tell you that your purchase of War Bonds to help other soldiers to carry on and hold on high the torch he was compelled to lay aside was the only proper thing to do. As Jack wrote long ago: you are always right in your deductions. I regret that Jack did not also favor us with one of his interesting letters this year too. Sometime when I return to California, maybe I will be able to find time to again write to Minerva, but for the present, this must be all.—BESSIE.

Clint Mitchell's Vote

ANY public official in Nebraska would have given a right arm and possibly an eye to have sat in the spot occupied by Lancaster county commissioner Clint Mitchell.

He voted against the motion to fix the county levy at 3.21 mills—the motion carrying as a result of the votes of Commissioners Fred Hall and Gillaspie.

Commissioner Mitchell was able to lean back comfortably in his chair, open wide his mouth, and sing this sweet music: "This is too much money. The county treasury now contains almost a half million dollars surplus. I cannot feel that it is just to raise more than we need."

Sweet music!

Sweeter notes than those haven't reached the ears of the taxpayers of this or any county in Nebraska. It is one refrain in which the musically inclined, and even those unable to carry a tune generally, would find it possible to join without the faintest trace of a sour discord.

Which brings up the question why Commissioners Hall and Gillaspie voted for the higher levy. The provision made for relief, increasing the estimates from $185,000 to $236,050 may represent foresight in anticipating possible developments following the termination of WPA, but the boost in the general fund is somewhat mystifying.

It was distinctly Mr. Mitchell's day at the county courthouse, and what a day!

Peggy Comes To Life

READERS of this newspaper, who have read the best seller warbook "They Were Expendable" have proof that life itself is stranger than fiction. "Peggy" to whom Lt. Robert B. Kelly refers so requently in the pages of "The Were Expendable" is no dream gal of the author's imagination. She lives.

Her name, according to the St. Louis Post Dispatch, is Lt. Beulah Greenwalt, of the army nurse corps, who became a graduate nurse in 1934 at Albuquerque, New Mexico, joined up with the army nurse corps five years ago, going to the Philippines in June of 1941, to experience the great action of the battle for Bataan and Corregidor. Her sister is Mrs. Jason R. King of St. Louis; her mother was Mrs. Samuel G. Greenwalt of Rolla, Misouri, and her father died only a month ago expressing the hope that he might live to hear from his daughter's lips the story of the struggle waged in defense of those two American bastions.

There is "fiction" being written these days in the daily deeds of action and high courage on the earth's battlefields. Only it isn't "fiction." It is the true story of the simple gallantry and courage of men and women who in the great danger that is their daily lot call upon the highest qualities of human nature. For the time being the fate of Lt. Beulah Greenwalt is obscure, but always among those who read she will live in the pages of "They Were Expendable."

Up 129 Percent

THAT news report showing farm income in Nebraska is increased 129 percent since August 1939 may lead to confusion.

Beginning in 1934, and continuing through until 1940, Nebraska farm income was but a shadow of itself. The average for the 8-year period from 1922 to 1930 was well above $400,000,000 annually. The assessed valuation of Nebraska through the years of depression and drouth dropped off more than a billion dollars, and to a very large extent that loss reflected the drop in land values, the empty cribs and granaries, and the absence of livestock from the farms of Nebraska.

Now the state is coming back in gratifying fashion—farms are being re-stocked—cribs are filled with corn and the holdings of small grain have increased enormously. Undoubtedly 1943 will see a substantial increase in the assessed valuations of Nebraska.

It is probable that farm income itself either will be greater or very close to the peak in the year just beginning.

Frank Walker

NATURALLY, there will be a great deal of curiosity among middlewestern people concerning Frank Walker, newly-elected chairman of the democratic national committee.

There will be more surprise in the discovery he is by youth and early manhood one of their own. His father, an independent copper mine operator, was a distinguished citizen of Montana. The son began his political career in that state, under the capable and forthright hands of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Teapot Dome fame.

No man could desire a better teacher than Tom Walsh. For years he was a distinguished member of the United States senate. His sympathies which blended themselves into a political philosophy became a tradition among the American people. Tom Walsh throughout a lifetime of struggle and storm politically never had any use for sham, dishonesty, and corruption. He fought it in high and low places. He was trustworthy and trusty, a pillar of strength.

That's the teacher Frank Walker had, and he was an apt pupil. He has a record for hard work and genuine accomplishments.

Another $64 Question

UNOFFICIAL reports that legislative consideration was being given in Nebraska to levying a tax—a gross production tax of two cents a barrel on Nebraska oil—were enough to send a chill up and down the spines of those interested in oil development.

And then someone got out his pencil and began figuring. On the basis of present production, and still going down in the absence of bringing in new wells of approximately 3,200 barrels of crude daily, the state's coffers would be enriched to the extent of $64 daily. Which makes it a dandy $64 question. The new revenue would be insufficient to pay for the stenographic and clerical help of the legislature while it was in session. As a means of adding to state revenue, it would be a "dry hole" after all of the thought and labor.

THERE is another side to it—in fact many sides to it. Men long have dreamed about adding to the riches of Nebraska by uncovering lakes of "black gold" far under the surface. There is oil in Kansas, and in the Salt Creek and in other fields in Wyoming, they have reasoned, so why not in Nebraska? All that was needed was a magic formula finding out where actually it is, and to find out considerable sums of money were spent over the years, considerable headaches and heartaches were experienced, and great was the rejoicing when finally it was announced oil had been found in the southeastern corner of the state in paying quantity and quality.

All of this is ancient history. To bring it down to date these relatively shallow Nebraska wells lose their "umph" after they have been pumped for a period of time. Production in that Nebraska field is on the downgrade now. It is anticipated it will not exceed 2,500 barrels six months from now, and within a period of two years the present producing wells may be giving up very little oil daily. There is nothing new about that experience—it happens to the very best of wells, and to the very best of oil fields.

MORE to the point, perhaps, was Governor Griswold's unfortunate criticism about the curtailment of oil production in Nebraska because of a quota imposed under bureaucratic Harold Ickes. Unfortunate, it would seem, because it did not square in all particulars with the daily oil production records of southeast Nebraska available in the office of the state Department of Agriculture.

They revealed that quota or no quota, or Brother Ickes be damned, the hard fact of life was Nebraska's production had begun to taper off. Originally Mr. Ickes' quota for the Nebraska field was 5,000 barrels; subsequently cut to 3,500 barrels, or 300 barrels more daily than the actual records of production indicate the wells can be coaxed into giving up. It is this kind of criticism of bureaucracy which contributes nothing but confusion and irritation. The Lord knows frequently bureaucrats can be irritating enough without having their critics pour oil on the flames.

OF COURSE Nebraska wants oil and more oil—and wants it especially from the actual or legendary deposits underneath its own good acres. It wants to give every encouragement to oil development so that in some sunshine-filled day ahead the good things of life will flow to its people not only from that which comes from the surface of the earth but from beneath the surface of the earth.

It wants agriculture and industry to march hand in hand in a golden parade, even at the risk its sons and daughters will become stoop-shouldered in bearing up under the weight of opulence and riches pouring in upon them. It has a bill to encourage the development of plastic industries in this state; and a very congenial companion to encourage the development of substitute rubber. It had a law providing encouragement for the development of oil wells producing in profitable quantity. And the answer to all of these $64 questions should not be long delayed.

Civilian Or Military?

NO DISCUSSION of administration of the Selective Service act exclusively by the war department would be complete without recognition in the beginning that many factors properly a part of it may be unknown to the public.

The net result of such a revision by Congress would be to centralize all authority again in Washington, and to strip local draft officials of much, if not all discretionary powers. It was this which produced the jam in manpower in the beginning.

It will be well also to recognize that the transfer of administration of any or all agencies from civilian to military control simply increases army rule over American life. Those steps may be necessary. We would not know. They should not be taken without frank recognition by congress, by their agencies of government, and by the public of the direction in which they lead. In this connection the quarrel between the war production board and the army chief of supply, General Somervell, will be recalled. The army, it was charged, wanted to take over production. The same line of reasoning in urging its retention in civilian hands does not apply in all essentials to the administration of the draft, but in the absence of proof to the contrary, and of discrimination and competence in the present handling of the Selective Service act, it might be well to leave it as it is.

There has been nothing said in relation to expense. Local draft boards have served patriotically without compensation. Under the administration of the war department will it be necessary to set up paid machinery for administration? The present war burden suggests that every step taken from now on in should be examined not only from the standpoint of efficiency but also cost.

Malone Objections

IT IS to be assumed that the objections to R. T. Malone as head of the unemployment insurance compensation division in Nebraska will be reduced to specific, and concrete form. The public is entitled to that much. Mr. Malone himself is entitled to know the exact nature of the protests against him.

NUMBER OF MENINGITIS CASES SHOWS INCREASE

Reports are coming in which indicate that possibly an increase in epidemic meningitis may occur in the United States. The number of reported cases in 1942 is far ahead of those reported in 1941 and nearly twice those in 1940. We also hear that sporadic cases have begun to appear in the Army camps.

In World War I we never were without meningitis in the Army camps. In 1917, when I arrived at the base hospital in San Antonio for duty, I took over a ward which had 20 cases of epidemic meningitis and during my two years stay there we always had one ward for these cases and we never had less than 3 patients, either active or convalescent, and often we had as many as 40.

There are two encouraging features of the possibility of such an epidemic which should be noted. As a matter of fact, both of them are the result of observations made during World War epidemics.

Can Be reated Successfully.

First, the disease, if taken early enough, can be successfully treated. In 1910, 95 per cent of the patients died. From 1917 to 1919, the mortality was less than 5 per cent due to serum properly administered. Since then we now have the sulonamide drugs which have proved successful adjuncts to serum.

The second feature which should be noted and which will save a great deal of morbidity is that people can learn to be on the lookout for the disease and detect it in an early stage. Army surgeons should be and are especially alert to the possibility that a soldier who has a fever and who becomes drowsy and mentally stuporous should have a diagnostic spinal fluid test in order to determine whether or not the condition may be meningitis. This applies to civilian practice as well.

This may seem to be obvious, but it is astonishing how many cases of infectious disease are seen early by physicians and dismissed as being due to "influenza' or a "bad cold" when the condition is actually something very serious. I have seen more cases of typhoid fever this fall than I have seen in the last 20 years and in about one-half of them the physician who was called in first diagnosed the situation as "influenza."

Epidemic meningitis is likely to occur whenever human beings mass from different parts of the country and there is a wide interchange of human contacts. It is probably spread by carriers who have become immune to the germs they have in their own nose and throat. That is why it is particularly likely to break out in wartime.

The germs probably get into the nose, then into the blood, and through the nose, by way of the small openings made by the olfactory nerves, into the coverings of the brain and spinal cord—the meninges. Here it sets up a pus infection which causes a depression of the entire nervous system.

Diagnosis can be made definitely by removing some spinal fluid from low down in the spine and determining whether there is any pus present and if the pus cells contain the meningococci. If this diagnostic test is positive, antimeningococcic serum is administered into the spinal canal. Also, as I have indicated above, it is treated by the use of the sulfonamide compounds. Low mortality is obtained nowadays, even in fairly advanced cases, by these methods, and when the condition is taken early enough the danger should be reduced to a very small minimum.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. J. B.: Is there any benefit in using sulphur and molasses as a blood cleanser? What effect does it have on a person? Is there any harm in taking too much?

Answer: Sulphur and molasses, in spite of tradition, has no proved action on the blood. There may be a little iron in molasses and some mineral value in the sulphur, but that could be easiy obtained in a different way. As far as I know, there is no harm in taking too much.

J. P.: What is Cheplin's acidophilus bacillus liquid and what is it mostly used for?

Answer: This is a culture which is used to put in milk to make it sour. It is used when the condition of the intestine is not satisfactory in some cases af diarrhea and in some cases of constipation.

I. M. M.: How long should a person have hot flashes due to an hysteretomy? I am thirty years old.

Answer: Usually at least a year; sometimes a little longer.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Reddy Fox Among the Weeds

Though you may see, you still may find
That in a measure you are blind.
—Reddy Fox.

"I'll try the Green Meadows first" he decided

Reddy Fox, at the edge of the Old Pasture, was undecided where to go to look for his breakfast, which might also be his lunch and his dinner. It often is, and there are times in winter when Reddy considers himself lucky if he gets one good meal a day. Snow lay several inches deep over all that part of the Great World. He looked over the Green Meadows that were no longer green. He looked over to the Green Forest that was now all white. Where would he be most likely to get that breakfast he so greatly needed?

"I'll try the Green Meadows first," he decided, and trotted out from the Old Pasture.

He headed straight for one end where the tops of many weeds stood above the surface. As he approached these he moved slowly and cautiously, hisc sharp eyes alert. It was very still. Not a Merry Little Breeze was moving. In several places Reddy saw little brown spots around the weeds. In turn he had a close look at each. They were made by tiny brown hulls of seed from the tops of the weeds, and at each place were dainty little footprints in the snow. Close to the stalks of some of the weeds were little holes in the snow. Reddy put his sharp, black nose to each, and each time he grinned. At each hole his nose had found the smell of mouse.

He moved quickly this way and that way among the weeds. He had a glimpse of Danny Meadow Mouse, but only a glimpse Danny had seen him and had dived down a hole in the snow. That hole was beside a weed and the stalk shook lightly as Danny ran down it in a hurry.

"No use for me to watch that hole. He is a wise old Mouse and he won't come out again for a long time. He is too wise for that. But there must be young Mice around here, young, foolish and careless Mice. I'll see what a little patience will do," said Reddy to himself. He went to the middle of the weeds and sat down. From there he could watch all parts of that big patch of weeds.

Now Reddy Fox knows all about patience. Yes, sir, he does so. He knows when to be patient as well as how to be patient. He knows when patience will likely be just so much time wasted. You see, while patience is a virtue it can be a wasted virtue. It is as important to know when to be patient as how to be patient. Reddy knows. It is part of the knowledge that makes him one of the smartest of all the people of the Green Forest and Green Meadows if not the smartest.

So Reddy sat still, so still that it didn't seem as if he could be a living person. Only his eyes seemed alive. Could you have looked into those you would have known instantly that he was very much alive. For a long time, during which Reddy kept his toes warm by keeping his bushy tail curled over them, nothing happened. Then Reddy saw a weed move ever so little. Probably you or I wouldn't have noticed it. If we had it wouldn't have meant anything to us. But Reddy saw it instantly, and it meant something to him. He knew that close to the stalk of that weed was a hole in the snow. He knew that a Mouse down under the snow was starting to climb that stalk, and being careless was making it shake a little. Instantly he moved toward that stalk.

The weed stopped shaking. Reddy stopped. Had that Mouse become suspicious? Reddy waited motionless, one foot lifted. He had stopped right in the middle of a step. The weed shook a little. Reddy moved forward quickly, never once taking his eyes from that weed. At last he was near enough. He waited now, set for a quick leap. Out of the hole in the snow beside the weed popped a heedless young Mouse without first trying to make sure that all was safe.

Reddy leaped. A cautious young Mouse peeping from another hole saw Reddy leap. He heard a faint squeak. He didn't wait to see or hear more. He had seen enough. He had seen Reddy Fox get the beginning of a breakfast. He had himself learned something, and knowledge leads to wisdom. Never forget that.

PEACE TERMS

Oh, when at last the peace is made
Or war will men be still afraid?
Will those of strength completely spent
Still wait and work for armament
And subject still to hates and fears
Prepare to fight in twenty years?

Must all the crimes which war enacts
Re-seed themselves in written pacts
And must the terms which men contrive
Still keep the ancient hates alive.
And must the peace that's made remain
Only till men can fight again—

Or is it now well understood
The people long for brotherhood?
The common people ask no more
Than promised in the freedoms four,
Security in work and in play,
Old age, and as they choose, to pray.

Who thinks in terms of "yours" and "mine"
And "have" and "seek" and "border line"
And ships and guns and armored might
Instead of freedom, truth and right,
Though for a time the cannons cease,
Will never make a lasting peace.

You mustn't tell Willie, but we do have great and powerful men whose word isn't worth a darn.

Holding out tax money isn't enough. Those who get it and then have to pay it are the ones who growl about waste.

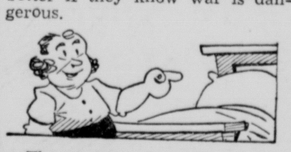
The first sign of age is a reluctance to go anywhere if you can't get back home by bedtime.

Americanism: Worrying about the shortage of manpower; refusing to make use of China's millions.

Once only mothers cried: "See what Willie is doing and make him stop it." Now Paul McNutt has the job.

Farmers will never be wholly satisfied. No matter how high prices go, they still can't lie late abed or work in a swivel chair.

Casualty lists are to be released in full. The government has decided that people will do better if they know war is dangerous.



The power of custom is best revealed by the awful kind of bed people prefer after they get used to it.

We'd better have a clear program, for broke and jobless millions will be apt to like the communist idea of taking it from the rich.

In other words, gasoline in the east is needed by our fighters, but it's all right to do a little pleasure driving and let the soldiers suffer a little bit.

Frances Farmer Has 'First Quiet Day In Weeks'; Sees Mother

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—(INS)—A dramatic meeting with her mother in the psychopathic ward of a Los Angeles hospital today resulted in former screen star Frances Farmer's "first quiet day in weeks," according to hospital psychiatrists.

The meeting was arranged by Dr. George N. Thompson after Mrs. Lillian V. Farmer had flown from Seattle to comfort her actress-daughter.

Miss Farmer was wearing the hospital uniform of gray slacks and white blouse when her mother entered the ward.

"Hello, Mom," the blonde actress greeted Mrs. Farmer. "Gee, you're looking great . . . say, those are smart looking shoes."

They talked privately for 10 minutes.

Leaving the hospital, Mrs. Farmer told a reporter: "This is like sickness or death. It comes along and you face it, doing everything that is necessary. We want Frances to have a good rest. She has a broken heart."

The actress was divorced last summer from actor Lief Erickson. Later she was reported engaged to a Hollywod lawyer, who now is married to a society woman.

Following a jail sentence last week growing out of conviction of drunken driving, the actress was placed under observation. A sanity hearing will be held Wednesday before Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine.

Product Of Prohibition.

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The recent attack made by one Dr. Geo. W. Crable, head of the anti-saloon league of America, on the office of war information was delivered at the time when any attempt to curtail the liberty or defame the moral standard of our armed forces may be considered an affront to the entire nation.

Crable said: "It would be interesting to look up the names of those now engaged in the brewing industry to find most of them German." May I add, it would be well for Dr. Crable and Wilson to check the list of names engaged in the home brewing industry during the prohibition era, and note that at least 90 per cent of good old American families possessed cellars reeking of hops, and vile boot-leg liquor—"Home brew-brewers."

Prohibition was the illegitimate offspring of World war No. 1 hysteria whose filthy career finally ended at the hands of a long-suffering outraged nation. But there still remains the deaf, and the blind who continue to advocate its resurrection.

Why do these misguided orators preach such distorted propaganda from the pulpit dedicated to the pure gospel of the tolerant Christ-man who turned the water into wine at the marriage feast of Cana? No wonder modern youth turns away in disgust, and wants none of it.

If these reformers would dedicate more time to their Heavenly Father's business of love, good will and charity to all men, they would have no need to fear.

JOHN T. PECK.

Drewing's Modesty.

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Quoting from the Star, Senator Norris said that after winning the war, the united nations must treat the people of the defeated nations in such a manner that "they would say of us, our enemies, after all, are better to us than our dictators were." The Norris peace lacks a lot of being as good as the Woodrow Wilson peace in that there is no self-determination in it. In his speech at the old city auditorium I saw Norris hold up the Versailles treaty in one hand and the Bible in the other while he said, "Which shall it be, the Bible or this bundle of iniquity?" The only difference between the Versailles peace and his peace is that Uncle Sam will be in the British-controlled league of nations, while Senator Lodge, in defense of American sovereignty—kept us out of the league.

I talked United States of Europe all over Germany and know that is what the Germans wanted then. I tried for the Bok peace prize by proposing a united states of Europe, Asia, Africa, North America, and South America and over them all, a world's representative government, patterned after our government. Then all disputes could be settled at election and the loser would try again at the next election in preference to war. My peace plan received no consideration. A British-controlled league was all Great Britain and France would accept, and that is all Great Britain will accept now. No kind of peace forced onto an unarmed nation is self-determination. The Norris peace is a dictator's peace.

Knowing that I am the only one who can handle Old Cuss Hitler and keep American citizens from being made subjects of the devil knows what, I am either too morest or too cowardly to ask for the job.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON.
(Major Robert S. Allen on active duty.)

WASHINGTON — Among the president's close inner circle no one has talked with him about a fourth term, with the possible exception of Harry Hopkins, and Harry these days moves in such rarefied atmosphere that not even other white house intimates know exactly what he thinks or talks about to the president.

However, you can't get away from the fact that some of the president's friends already are discussing a fourth term. They are doing it with various degrees of reaction, however. Some mention it reluctantly, as if they didn't want it, but think it necessary because there is no one else on the democratic horizon.

Some definitely believe the president should run, hope he will run, and think he will be elected. They, however, are in a minority.

Different Than 1940.

From one man, not as close as Hopkins but who sees the president frequently, comes this diagnosis:

"It will take wild horses to drag the Boss into running for a fourth term. But he isn't going to say so. There is nothing he loves more than to keep people guessing. He is going to do just what he did last time—say nothing until the last minute.

"However, the picture is different from that in 1940. Then, we approached certain war, with only one man who could lead and unify the country in preparation for that war. The nation was torn between isolationists and interventionists. We could have been disastrously split, the way the nazis planned. Only now do we realize how dangerously we were open to attack.

"That was the primary reason Roosevelt stayed on, to bridge us over the war gap. But now that we are in the war, and on the road to victory, he doesn't feel the same way. The issue is not so urgent, and he will not run in 1944."

Note: This friend omitted one factor from his diagnosis. FDR also wants to win the peace after the war. To this end, some friends think he should make a deal with Willkie or Henry Wallace to let him handle the peace after 1944 while they handle the white house.

Capitol Chaff.

The army has found a new type of work for defeated congressmen—semi-diplomatic jobs in north Africa ... Ex-Congressman Wilburn Cartwright, democrat of Oklahoma, has just been commissioned a major, and is taking a course in military government at Charlottesville, Va., to become a military governor in north Africa ... Likewise Ex-Congressman Charles Faddis, democrat of Pennsylvania, a reserve officer, is on the staff of Gen. Eisenhower. He is handling liaison work among the Arabs and the French... The army finds that men with congressional experience have a knack for getting along with people and do well in these jobs... When Leon Henderson leaves his job as price czar, he will take a rest trip to Latin America. "How far I go will depend on how much it costs," he says. "I'll be a private citizen with no income, and airplane travel costs money"... Henderson, who had nothing but his government salary, could make a small fortune at lobbying or lecturing, but won't ... Manpower Boss McNutt is greasing the skids for another military man, Brig. Gen. William Rose, in charge of the manning tables of the labor utilization bureau. This is an important job—rating workers and jobs on their value to the war. Rose will be replaced by a civilian. Gen. McSherry has already exited and McNutt is anxious to run the manpower board chiefly with civilians.

Knudsen's Sign Language.

Big Bill Knudson did something the other day which amazed even his friends. They had not suspected that he could talk in deaf-mute language.

Lieut. Gen. Knudsen was inspecting war plants, accompanied by other army officers. He dropped in at the Reynolds Metal Co., Louisville, Ky., where approximately 25 per cent of the employees are deaf-mutes.

By shifting the lunch period, the management gathered all the workers to hear a talk from Knudsen. The foreman told him about the deaf-mutes, adding as a jest, "You'd better talk to them in sign language.

But it was no jest to Knudsen. To the amazement of the foreman and the army officers, he broke into the sign language and carried on a discourse with his hands. The officers gasped, then applauded.

Later, individual workers were brought up to meet Knudsen, and he stood around talking with them in the sign language.

Note: By finding war work for these handicapped workers, Reynolds Metal Co. has increased their earnings from $17 a week to $40-plus.

Reports Show Gains At Annual Meeting of Grace Lutheran

A net gain of about 50 members for the past year was reported at the annual congregational meeting of Grace Lutheran church, Monday night. Despite cold weather a fair-sized audience was present.

Shifting population, due to war, held down the net gain in membership, Dr. Leland H. Lesher, the pastor, explained. More than 100 new members were received during the year, by baptism, but about half that number left Lincoln to engage in war industries, or enter the armed forces, during the same period.

Reports showed that during 1942 the church school was able to maintain an efficient staff of officers and teachers. Other departmental reports revealed a healthy condition in finances and in varied activities. There is a balance in the treasury, with about one-third the church income having been used for benevolent purposes.

During the year a lot on which to build a new church structure, at Twenty-second and Washington streets, was purchased, and the building fund is steadily growing.

Seventy-five per cent of the people of India are farmers, most of them living in mud-walled thatch-roofed dwellings.

Married Men Draft Date Still Uncertain

...McNutt Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—The date for drafting married men with children today is still uncertain in the opinion of War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt.

Asked at a press conference about the possibility that fathers might be drafted about the middle of the year, McNutt said:

"I don't think it would be wise to excite men with children by naming a date no one can be certain of."

He said the size of the armed forces would be one factor in determining the date.

The WMC chief promised, however, that men with children would be given "as much notice as possible, and have an element of certainty in it."

Some draft boards have been calling married men without children since early December and most have notified such registrants that reclassification is under way.

STATE'S ANNUAL FARM MEETING IS CUT TO ONE DAY

Only one day has been scheduled for Nebraska's annual organized agriculture conference meeting at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture Wednesday, Feb. 3.

Discarding the usual four-day meetings for farm folks due to war conditions, the one day will be given over to business sessions and short programs of state agricultural societies, the Hall of Agricultural Achievement and a special health program. The latter will be held in connection with the home economics section and the state health planning committee.

W. H. Brokaw, in announcing the cancellation of the four-day meetings, said that county extension agents will carry the usual farm and home information discussed on organized agriculture out to farm folks directly.

Norris Leaves Washington Perhaps 'Never To Return'

...MAY WRITE AUTOBIOGRAPHY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Still feeling it was a sad and bitter disappointment to be defeated by "the people I loved," Nebraska's Former Senator George W. Norris bade farewell to Washington last night with the remark, "I don't know whether I'll ever come back."

He remained until almost the last minute in a little office in the capitol which he has retained since his term expired January 3, finally taking the subway from the capitol to the senate office building, heading for the railroad station where he entrained for St. Louis.

He still feels as he did the day after election regarding the termination of his nearly 40 years of congressional service, he said. The day after election he called his defeat a repudiation of his long public service and branded himself an "utter failure."

As to the future, Norris said he was "all at sea," although he was giving some thought to writing a book. "That's what most people want me to do," he declared. "They want me to write an autobiography. It has been suggested that I write magazine articles or that I take some position in the government. There have been some negotiations but I have made no commitments as yet."

Norris said he had turned down numerous invitations to speak, among them from Omaha and Lincoln in his home state. He said he may go to Omaha and Lincoln later, possibly on the way to Chicago where a dinner is to be given in his honor Feb. 12. "It's not so easy for me to get around at my age," he explained.

Shurtleff Challenges Kansas To Contest In Paralysis Fund Drive

W. Bruce Shurtleff, Nebraska state committee chairman for the celebration of the president's birthday, has challenged Louis Levand, Wichita, Kansas state chairman, to a fund-raising contest in connection with the drive to raise money for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The drive culminates Jan. 30, on the president's sixty-first birthday.

Mr. Shurtleff proposes that the state chairman of the losing committee personally buy and donate to the National Foundation for infantile Paralysis a $25 war bond.

Here is the text of Mr. Shurtleff's wire to Mr. Levand:

"The Nebraska committee for the celebration of the president's birthday of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis hereby challenges your Kansas State committee in the fund-raising drive now under way. Aware that your state has about 25 per cent greater population, yet we say we can and will best you in the drive. I propose that the state chairman of the losing committee personally purchase and deliver to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis one $25 war bond. Wire if you accept the challenge, and the battle is on."

Fairbury Elks Sponsor Annual Birthday Ball

FAIRBURY, Jan. 19—Plans are underway for the annual President's Birthday ball, an infantile paralysis benefit, to be held at the Fairbury Elks club rooms Friday night, Jan. 29. George Bliss, chairman of the annual affair, emphasizes that the polio benefit is a county-wide undertaking, and not strictly an Elks enterprise; the Elks club is donating the use of their club rooms for the ball.

Included on the evening's program will be a dance, cards, bingo games, and other attractions. Refreshment booths and other features will be part of the evening's entertainment.

One thing is certain. Our victory will be Russia's victory, and Russia will dominate Europe if we keep out.

Leadership Training Classes at Fairbury

FAIRBURY, Jan. 19 — First classes of the second annual leadership training school, sponsored by Fairbury churches, were held Monday evening at the Presbyterian church, and will continue each Monday night for six weeks, ending Feb. 22.

Courses being taught this year are: "The Prophets and Their Message," "Guidance in Christian Home Making," "Guiding the Religious Growth of Juniors," and "The Church Through the Centuries."

Each person enrolling in the leadership training school may take only one of the four courses, since classes in all courses will be taught simultaneously, eliminating the possibility of attending more than one class.

Miss Mabel Jackson Enriched Many Lives, Says Rev. Bobbitt

"She was faithful to loved ones; faithful in friendship; faithful in her life work; faithful to her church," said Rev. B. C. Bobbitt, speaking at the funeral of Miss Mabel Jackson, for forty years a teacher in the Lincoln schools, held Tuesday afternoon at First Christian church.

Rev. Bobbitt took as his text Matt: 25:21, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful in a few things; be thou ruler over many; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Speaking of Miss Jackson's years of service in the schools, Rev. Bobbitt said, "There are thousands of lives she has touched and enriched in her calling as a school teacher, than which there is no greater calling."

"She loved the church, believed in its message, and followed its Christ" said Rev. Bobbitt. "Her life is her best tribute, sealed forever in the heart of God."

Burial was at Odell, Neb.

Russia Unable To Carry On Without Help Says Galter

Russia will not be economically able to carry on alone until her troops reach the Dnieper river, in her present drive, Simon Galter, who served with the Russian army during the first World war, told members of the Lincoln Credit Men's association Monday night, at their meeting in the Cornhusker hotel.

He pointed out that until the Red troops do reach the Dnieper they will not control the important roads into the Crimea. It is in that district that Russia's greatest food production was achieved, he said, adding that the soviet had lost 70 per cent of her food supplying territory previous to her recent successes.

Now established in business, in Lincoln, Mr. Galter compared the conditions that confronted the soldier fighting under the Czar, in 1914, with those now faced by the soviet troops, under Stalin's regime. The modern Russian soldier is far better equipped, he stated, pointing to inefficiency in the handling of munitions and supplies for the Czar's troops.

Youths Of 17 Now May Enter Army Reserve

BOSTON, Jan. 19 — (AP)—Youths of 17 now may enlist in the army reserves, but they won't be called into service until some time during the six months after their 18th birthdays, Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles of the first service command, has announced.

Recruiting officials said this was the first time in a generation that boys have been permitted to enlist in the United States army before they became 18 years old.

Miles said that, under a new policy of the army ,the youths, provided they are American citizens, are physically fit and have their parents' consent, can enlist either in the army enlisted reserve corps, unassigned, or, if they qualify, as aviation cadets in the air corps enlisted reserve.

Proposed Oil Tax Might Close Wells In Nebraska

... SURVEY SHOWS

FALLS CITY, Jan. 19—(AP)—As a result of reports that a movement is under way in the state legislature to levy a gross production tax of two cents a barrel on Nebraska oil production, a survey was taken here to determine just how much revenue such a tax would bring.

An observer pointed out that currently the Richardson county fields—the only oil being produced in Nebraska—are yielding about 3,200 barrels of crude per day. The proposed two-cent tax would make an income of about $64 a day.

From present known fields, the production is expected to slump to 2,500 barrels six months from now and two years from now, the state would be fortunate if it could get $1.75 a day from such a gross production tax, the observer feels.

The fields are declining steadily in production—the normal course of events in all fields —and there are some wells in the Falls City, Shubert and Dawson fields which are operating so close to the profit line that a two-cent tax would cause their owners to quit producing them, it is believed.

The Falls City Journal declared that a formula, based upon the capitalization of a well's potential production, already has been worked out to enable the state and its sub-divisions to obtain a fair return from the wells and "the legislature had better let it go at that."

Soldiers Far From Home So They Adopt Each Other's 'Mom'

An incident at the Hospitality Clearing House last Sunday revealed the service men's appreciation of home entertainment. One of the hostesses in conversing with her soldier guest found that he was from San Diego where her own son is stationed.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if you boys could switch camps and each be with his own mother?" the hostess remarked.

"Oh, we can fix that," the soldier said. "You be my mother down here and I'll write to my own mother to adopt your son down there."

Mrs. Gertrude Atkinson is acting as "major" of soldier entertainment for this week and through Sunday. She has emphasized that there is as much need in sharing the hospitality during the week as on Sunday as many soldiers get leaves only on week days.

"Captains" receiving calls for invitations this week and next Sunday are: Mrs. J. S. Moell, 3-8321; Mrs. Gertrude Faust, 2-3162; Mrs. Pearl Larson, 6-1022; Mrs. Leora Johns, 5-9759; Mrs. Martin Pederson, 6-3983; Mrs. Irene Francke, 5-8505; Mrs. Beth Bowen, 4-2556; Mrs. Nathan Grossman, 3-2545; Mrs. Emma Simmons, 3-9417; and Mrs. Gerald Carpender, 3-4141.

Sales From Outside State Involved In Assessment Appeal

Whether or not conditional sales contracts of outside corporations made in Nebraska are taxable as intangibles is involved in an appeal of Douglas county from an adverse decision in its case with Massey Harris Co., an implement firm with offices in Racine, Wis.

The Massey Harris Co. claims that it found its 1941 assessment suddenly raised from nothing to $500,000 in the case of Class B intangibles, represented by conditional sales contracts. The board of equalization in Douglas county dismissed its complaint. It appealed to the district court of Douglas county on July 8, 1941. The lower court found for the plaintiff in October, 1942, and the county has appealed to the Supreme court.

The case is said to involve highly important angles in taxation of intangibles in Nebraska. If the Supreme court were to reverse the lower court, it would have tremendous effect on hundreds of outside corporations that make sales in Nebraska.

"The town slipped behind them . . ."

"Whit drove ahead—he had to!"

"Melissa reached out for the twig . . ."

"She was hurt. She had wanted to help."

WHIT AND MELISSA WERE out on the river, in the long quiet reach where the river spreads out above the falls. "Well," Whit said, "now we got started, next thing is t' git there." He could feel a great uplift. Melissa was with him. The town was behind them. He paddled easy, as a man is apt to do at the start of a day or a journey. But they made good headway, and by late mid-afternoon, the river had narrowed. The current was strong now. Whit was working his way through the rocks, planning and figuring, taking no chances.

For some distance ahead it was too fast on his side of the river and there were too many boulders. But he didn't see any place for getting across. . . . There would have been a good place except for an elm tree that had got hung up on a rock out there. Well, he'd have to go round it.

When he got out there between the tree and the rocks, he found he didn't have as much room as he'd thought he was going to. His paddle touched an underwater branch, then another, but he drove ahead—he had to!

Melissa's small toes curled up in her shoes. She was leaning forward and her hands gripped the gun'l. She had to sit there, just part of the weight Whit was trying to lift. Directly ahead was a twig that looked stout enough for her to lay hold on and help pull them along. Melissa reached out for it. "Stop that!" Whit yelled at her, and she jumped back, startled.

They reached safe water finally and Whit poled with his paddle. "That danged old elm tree," he said to Melissa, "couldn't a picked a worse place. 'Twas narrow in there. You feel me touch them two branches down in under the water?"

She shook her head.

Whit looked at her. "What's the matter?" he asked.

She was sitting up straight. "Nothin'."

Whit thought back till he came to it. Then he said honestly, "'F you'd a been pullin' against that twig, 'n it had come off in your hand, 'n you'd fell over backward, then where'd we a been? I had to yell at you."

"Well, you don't have to now."

Whit took his time about answering. "No, that's right, I guess. Well, nothin' happened."

She was still hurt. She had wanted to help.

Recent Attacks On Edw. J. Flynn Are Called 'Plot'

Democratic Leaders Say Real Purpose Is To Hurt Roosevelt

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP)—The democratic national committee charged late yesterday that recent attacks on Edward J. Flynn, who has been nominated as minister to Australia, were carried out by enemies of President Roosevelt who "dare not directly attack the commander-in-chief of our forces in the midst of a war."

The committee stepped into the controversy over Flynn's appointment to the diplomatic service and gave him a vote of "complete confidence" after Flynn had resigned as the committee's chairman and Postmaster General Frank C. Walker had been chosen as his successor.

A resolution, approved unanimously by the group, asserted enemies of the president were attempting to break down the respect of the American people for him, and added:

"Attack On President"

"Whereas they dare not directly attack the commander-in-chief of our forces in the midst of war, they are seeking by indirection, subterfuge and chicanery to accomplish their purpose by a campaign of falsehood, detraction and vicious newspaper propaganda directed against the leader of the president's party during the past two years, by implying deceit and evil motives on the part of the president in appointing a valued, capable and loyal friend to an important diplomatic post to which that friend is eminently qualified by his personal qualities and his honest, efficient performance in public office."

The statement contended that Flynn was being assailed "simply as a cover to their effort to discredit the president and the president's party." It maintained that the "enemies" had the support of "that portion of the American press that has always sought to undermine the prestige of our great president."

The committee denounced "such political sabotage" as a "dastardly, treasonable plot to hamper" the president by attempting to destroy public confidence in him. It maintained the purpose of Flynn's critics was to "repeat with Franklin D. Roosevelt what they did by similar methods to another great president, Woodrow Wilson."

Confidence In Flynn

The group then declared its "complete confidence and faith in the probity, honor and capacity" of Flynn.

The party leaders came to Flynn's support as he prepared to go to Washington for a hearing by the senate foreign relations committee on his fitness for the diplomatic post. Flynn's appointment by President Roosevelt had been criticized by some republicans in and out of the senate. One of the critics, Senator Bridges (Rep-NH) referred specifically to an investigation by a Bronx grand jury into charges that a court yard in Flynn's estate had been paved with New York materials and labor. The jurors exonerated Flynn.

Walker, who, like Flynn, is an old friend of the president, accepted the national chairmanship in a brief talk before the committee, and then outlined his views in a prepared radio address.

He stated the party must not retreat from its stand for social security and must fight to establish the laws of human decency as the pillars of the social order of the post-war world.

'Little Man' Did Miracle Job In '42 Says Engineer

...OUTPUT HELD AMAZING

The little man completed the biggest construction job ever undertaken in this country or anywhere with amazing speed in 1942, Col. Lewis A. Pick of Omaha, division engineer of the Missouri River Division of Engineers, told a dinner group of the Associated General Contractors of America at the Cornhusker Monday night.

"Construction," Colonel Pick said, "is the rock bottom base of our war effort. The battle of building was the first engagement won by a nation all out for war."

Pointing out that the achievement is too recent to be evaluated properly, Colonel Pick told what had been done by the people of the nine states comprising the Missouri River division, a territory of 700,000 square miles.

In 18 months, he said, soldiers, ammunition, shells, bombing planes and other vital equipment from this region are in use against the nation's enemies.

Ahead of Schedule.

More than 100 jobs were completed 76 per cent ahead of schedule with completion dates bettered by as much as four months on jobs finished in the past year.

To reveal the magnitude of the work, the colonel said that in 31 days last July, more than 89 million dollars worth of work was done by 36,000 workers.

Significantly, he added as an achievement for the midwest, with a total of 200 million man hours in 1942, lost man hours due to labor stoppages were less than one-fifteenth of one per cent.

The huge construction job had been transferred to the U. S. Corps of Engineers from the quartermaster's corps, one week after the declaration of war. It was the first unity of command of the war, he said.

H .E. Foreman, Washington, D. C., managing director of the association, spoke on "Association Activities."

Alcan Highway Films.

H. W. Richardson of Chicago, western editor of Engineering News-Record, the first citizen to travel the entire length of the Alcan highway to Alaska, gave films depicting the achievement. The 1670 miles of this roadway to Alaska, completed in four months, will stand as one of the landmarks of American energy and brains, he said.

The highway and heavy construction contractors of Nebraska renamed Harold Holtz, Lincoln, president; C. W. Hansen, Lincoln, treasurer, and Milburn D. Johnson, Lincoln, secretary. New officers are: M. M. Liggett, Lincoln; W. A. Biba, Geneva; John Sutherland, Omaha, and Wallace Scott, Stromsburg, directors.

Stretching a Point

Changed From A Figure Of Speech to a Fact

THE OPA, utterly disregarding thermometer readings in these parts, is about to produce a "freezing" system all its own—and this time it has to do with more than coffee and sugar.

In Des Moines last night, a sample "Victory dinner," lacking, of course in top sirloins, but composed of foods which will be available after rationing sets in, was given the approval of the food rationing directors who were the dinner guests.

Here's the menu: Dry lima bean soup with parsley topping and salt wafers; roast capon with sage dressing and giblet gravy; candied yams with pickled beet and corn relish; shredded cabbage salad with cream mayonnaise; corn bread, one pat of butter; apple gingerbread; and coffee.

Coffee and sugar (used in the candied yams) were about the only items which will be affected when rationing begins late next month.

The dinner preceded the meeting today of the midwest government and grocery officials at which the "point" system was explained—the first official explanation, which will be carried on to the housewives, and which will graduate from the explanatory stage and become a fact along about the middle of February.

All canned, dried, bottled and frozen vegetables, fruits, juices and soups will come under the point system, and here is how the system will work, according to the OPA officials, headed by Kenneth E. Stauffer, chief of the OPA's processed foods rationing division, Washington, D. C.:

Sales of canned and bottled food will be "frozen" a week before rationing begins to enable retailers to stock their shelves. During this week one adult member of each family will take the group's entire No. 1 rationing books to an OPA registration station, possibly in a school, where ration book no 2 will be issued for each No. 1 book.

Each No. 2 book has two sets of stamps, one blue and the other red for meat which will be rationed later and which was not discussed. Each stamp has both a letter and a number, the letters running from A through Z with the exception of I and O.

Each letter appears on four stamps, making 96 blue stamps in the book. A, B, and C stamps will be used for the first ration period, the next three letters for the second and so on.

One of the four stamps under each letter has a figure 8, one a 5, one a 2 and one a 1. Thus, with three letters in the ration period, each person has three 8-point stamps, three 5's, three 2's and three 1's, a total of 48 points for each ration period a person.

For each can of food in excess of a specified limit on hand for each person, possibly between 8 and 12, an 8-point stamp will be removed from the ration book. None of the 1, 2 or 5-point stamps will be removed, enabling each person to vary his diet.

During the freeze period, OPA will announce the point values of various rationed products on the basis of weight or fluid ounces rather than can size of which there are more than 100. These point values will be adjusted so that the total number of points assigned to all consumers will not exceed the total supply of rationed goods. The point values will vary according to the available supply.

Thus, a housewife will have two budgets, ration points and money. She may buy at several stores but she can not buy more than 48 points worth a person for each period. High-point value goods mean fewer cans of food.

There is no relationship between the point value of a can and its price or grade. Thus, a can of corn of the same number of ounces will have the same point value whether it costs a dime or a dollar or whether it is A or Z grade.

To gain a maximum flexibility in the use of stamps, the housewife was urged to use her 8-point stamps first, her 5-point stamps second and so on.

Point values will be announced in newspapers and will be posted in all grocery stores. Grocers, however, were urged to mark the point value on each rationed product as they now mark prices.

One person may shop for the entire family, but the stamps must be removed from the ration books in the presence of the grocer or the deliveryman.

Regular commercial banks, beginning, Jan. 27, will open ration checking accounts for dealers who will not have to register with OPA until the end of the first ration period. Rationing coupons will be deposited the same as cash with separate accounts for each rationed commodity.

In buying from a wholesaler, a retailer may write a ration check on his ration account with his bank. Wholesalers will follow the same system in buying from processors.

Consumers will continue to use ration book No. 1 in buying sugar.

Bottlenecks In Education Held Foe Of Schools

...By Supt. W. O. Reed

"Bottlenecks in education must be eliminated," said Wayne O. Reed, state superintendent of public instruction, who opened the three-day meeting of the Nebraska County Superintendents' Association at the Cornhusker hoted Tuesday morning, at which more than 75 county superintendents from over Nebraska were present.

Comparing such educational issues as contact jumping, teacher shortage and school finance to bottlenecks in industry, ReRed stressed the importance of their elimination and the necessity of establishing a united front in attacking the problems facing Nebraska schools today.

Officers for the new year were nominated at the afternoon meeting as follows: For president, Gladys Homan Breidert, Madison, and Kathryn Lee, Banner; for vice president, Merle Haynes, Dakota, C. N. Fleenor, Scottsbluff; for secretary, Margaret Turnbull, Merrick, Nelle Booher, Harlan; for treasurer, Paul Exstrom, Lincoln, Russelle McCreight, Jefferson; for sergeant at arms, J. Mike McCoy, Cedar county.

Bloom, Dawson; H. W. Munson, Gage; Glenn Turner, Lancaster; Goldie Stark, Buffalo.

The morning session was devoted to an open discussion on emergency teaching certificates, and the advisability of extending the time limit on them. Elmer Lindahl, Antelope county, Merle Haynes, Dakota county, and Ruth F. Warren, Keith county, led the discussion, opened by W. A. Rosene, director of certification.

"Schools At War" was the topic of F. B. Decker, Wayne county, at the meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Led by C. H. Rhoades, Seward county, discussion on the proposed legislation for school finance was held.

Mike McCoy, president of the association, was in charge of the meetings.

Speaker for the banquet Tuesday evening is Fred C. Weigman, president of Midland college.

Wednesday's program will comprise an institute of the state superintendent with the county superintendents, to be followed Thursday by a joint meeting of the Nebraska State School Board's Association with the county superintendents' association.

Lincoln Landlords Accorded Praise By Rent Administrator

Curry W. Watson, rental administrator for Lincoln, explained the rental control setup to the Rotary club at the Lincoln hotel Tuesday noon.

"We have encountered very little difficulty with rent control in the city of Lincoln," Watson said. "We do not feel that rents in Lincoln are unreasonable. On the whole, everybody has been very co-operative."

In some cases, Watson said, control works a definite hardship on some landlords. "We have had some difficulty with landlords in making them continue all the equipment and services that they provided before rent control went into effect."

Landlords, Watson explained, are required to continue to provide all equipment and services they provided before, or else they are not entitled to the same amount of rent.

Soldier, Struck By Grocery Truck, Asks $10,000 In Damages

A $10,000 personal injury suit was filed by a soldier, Dennis T. Elliott, in District court Tuesday against Otto Nix, proprietor of the Vine Street market, and Frank Killian ,an employe of Nix, for injuries Elliott claims he received last Oct. 3 when he was struck by a car Killian was driving.

Elliott said in his petition that he and a group of soldiers were standing near the alley which travels from Twenty-fourth to Twenty-fifth streets between N and O streets, when Killian drove through the alley and ran the car into the group. He was making grocery deliveries for his employer at the time. Elliott claimed that Killian was driving at an excessive rate of speed.

NOTE of congratulation from this column to Dana Bible on the result of the Texas-Georgia Tech Cotton Bowl game on New Year's day brought the following response from the distinguished Texas U. coach:

D. X. Tells Of Texas U. Victory

"Our Cotton Bowl game was a humdinger and one of the most interesting of our season. We had the situation well in hand until the fourth quarter. Georgia Tech started connecting on some passes and made it very uncomfortable just near the close, but the finish was most satisfactory.

"Our boys defeated a fine team. It was the kind of game you would have enjoyed—played fair and square, hard and clean. The Cotton Bowl trophy will be among our possessions that we prize most. The victory enabled all our friends and followers to start the new year right.

"By the way, I have sold my summer place at Estes Park, Colorado. Recently I bought a little farm near Austin. It's a place where I think I can create a lot of interests and keep the weekends from being so long. Hope you can so arrange it as to pay us a visit during one of your trips to California. With warmest regards and every good wish, I am, sincerely yours, "D. X."

* * * *

THE 1942 season at Texas U. already is entered in the record as the super-nigh water-mark of the Bible regime. Football at the Austin institution had sunk to a new low prior to the installation of "D. X." as head coach in 1937. In taking over, Dana made no rash promises, saying it probably would require not less than five years to get the situation straightened out.

Nebraskans Join In His Rejoicing

Sure enough, the Longhorns came through in Dana's fifth season as one of the great teams of the southwest. Although his proteges failed by a hair-line margin to bag the conference championship—a tie score with Baylor was the burr in the ointment—the Longhorns had the satisfaction of smacking down the champs.

After which they came through with a pulverizing defeat of Oregon U., which established Texas as the actual leader in the southwest, even though the book record didn't say so in cold figures.

Seems to me that it comes extra easy for Nebraskans to rejoice whenever success crowns the efforts of the Longhorns, for, as I see it, the good will and good wishes of Cornhuskerland for "D. X." are the sort that will do a hangover as long as time shall run.

* * * *

MEANTIME, the warmth of the Bible invitation to this column to pay him a visit at his new Austin home is much appreciated, but in my present mood I fear it never may be my pleasure to take the Texas coach at his word.

How come? Well, the heat nuisance bars Texas from summer vacation consideration. As for tarrying at Austin as part of a winter jaunt to California, that, too, goes right out the window, for truth is I've sworn off heading for the west coast while snow and ice are with us in Nebraska.

Nix For Winter Trips To California

That's right, California has been rubbed from my book for winter vacation purposes. For saying it in print, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce probably will brand me as Public Enemy No. 1, but I feel bound to give warning, to-wit:

On three occasions during the past four years, I've had my winter vacation in the citrus sector ruined by a heavy cold. Early this month, I had to lay up a full week at my brother's L. A. home. Compelled, too, to stay off the smokes for nine long days. Henceforth, I shall be happy to stick it out at home for my winter colds. "California Here I Come" is not for me.

When frost is on the window
And ice ain't worth a cent,
I'll stick to old Nebraska
And vow I'm quite content.

RUSS NEEDHAM, Columbus, (O.) Dispatch: "What the Cardinals didn't do toward breaking up the Yankees, apparently the war is completing...One gets this idea of contemplating what the American league champions will have left if Joe Dimaggio is successful in his intention of enlisting in the armed forces."

Howard Plots Defeat 'Whirly'

—HORSEMAN PINS HOPES ON KAYAK—

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19—(INS)—Ever since the Calumet Farm's Whirlaway, horse of the year for 1942 and present champion of the American turf, passed the money-winning mark of the celebrated Seabiscuit, Charley Howard, master of Ridgeway ranch, has been trying to figure a way to beat him.

WHIRLAWAY.

The sportsman from Northern California redwood forests, where Seabiscuit is retired to the stud, believes he has the horse to do it. His name is Kayak II.

Kayak has been a great horse in the past. He is the best of a flock of thoroughbreds imported from South America by Howard. He won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in 1939 in comparatively easy fashion against a very high class field.

WAS HE HELD BACK?

He was second to his stablemate Seabiscuit in the same stake in 1940 and there are turfmen out here who still argue that Kayak was held back in the stretch so Seabiscuit could win and run up his money-winning mark above that of the celebrated Sun Beau, top money-winner up to that time.

Whether the last assertion was true or not is beside the point. Kayak was a great horse. Probably the best of his three-year-old or four-year-old year. Granting that he was, that doesn't make him a winner over the great Whirlaway now by any means, although he would have quite an advantage in the weights, if they ever are matched.

The South American importation bowed a tendon while training for the Santa Anita handicap in 1941 and hasn't gone postward since. He was sent to Howard's ranch in the redwoods for a long rest. He has been pronounced cured and put back in trainnig. He has responded splendidly and Howard believes he will be as good as he was when he won the Hundred Grander. Maybe he will, but he will have to prove it. Seldom do horses come back that well.

Even if he is that good it doesn't mean he could beat Whirlaway, regardless of weights. Whirly holds the Kentucky Derby track record, formerly held by Twenty Grand. He has broken plenty of marks and is the fastest thing on four hoofs.

WHIRLY READY.

Ben Jones, trainer for Warren Wright, owner of the chestnut with the long tail, says the horse is as sound as he was when he first went to the post as a juvenile and he believes he will win $1,000,000 before he is retired.

Howard hopes Kayak will be able to run soon. He and Whirly were expected to meet in the Widener Handicap, feature of the meeting cancelled at Hialeah.

Howard is a bit apprehensive regarding the get of his famous stake champion, Seabiscuit. His first colts are about ready for big stakes. It hasn't been possible to accurately judge them yet, but they are out of splendid brood mares, with the blood lines of champions, and thus Seabiscuit's owner hopes to see some of them bring fame to their illustrious sire.

Many great thoroughbreds have proved to be of little use as sires. Seabiscuit may also be a bust, but it will be interesting to see the results of the breeding.

Hits the Hoop for 26 Points

Phillip of Illinois Has Extra Warm Night While His Team Trounces Iowa.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP)—The super whiz kid, Andy Phillip, was on the way to smashing all existing Big Ten scoring records today after drilling in 26 points last night in Illinois' 66-34 victory over Iowa.

It was his best effort since playing collegiate basketball and gave him an average of 23 points in his team's four Big Ten victories—one of the hottest sustained individual scoring drives ever made by a conference cager.

Phillip's run on points looks like this: 19-24-23-26—92. If he averages only 12 in his remaining eight games, he will equal the all-time 12-game record of Illinois' great sharpshooter, Chuck Carney, who doused the strings with 188 in 1920. If he maintains a 19-point average from here on out, his 12-game total will reach 244, topping the 242 mark last year of Wisconsin's Johnny Kotz in 15 contests.

Now Come the Exams.

That's something for Phillip to think about until Feb. 1, Illinois' next game, which will be against Northwestern. Semester examinations come up in the meantime.

In other Big Ten games last night, Purdue was knocked from the unbeaten class by Minnesota, 50-48, and Chicago set a new all-time losing record by bowing to Ohio State, 47-29.

It was the Maroons' thirty-fourth consecutive Big Ten defeat. Chicago's previous record was 33, strung up when it dropped its last two games in 1935, all of them in 1936 and 1937 and the first two in 1938.

TAKEN ill at the recent Chicago major league baseball meeting and feeling "bum" ever since, the Brooklyn Dodgers' chief "bum," Player-Manager Leo Durocher, is shown at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he went for a checkup. He still had a smile when greeted in a hospital bed.

Cleveland is known as the Forest City, and the baseball fans there want to know when they are going to get out of the woods.

Huskers Stopped At Ames

Nebraska U. Basketmen Set Back On Heels On Cyclone Court By Score 50 to 38.

AMES, Ia., Jan. 19—(AP)—The surprising Iowa State Cyclones moved abreast of Kansas in the Big Six conference basketball race last night by downing the Nebraska Cornhuskers here, 50 to 38, in a contest in which the outcome was never in doubt after the opening minutes.

The Huskers, previously in the top spot with Kansas, made a battle of it during part of the first half, in which the lead was exchanged five times in 10 minutes, but with Bob Hayes and Ron Norman sparking the attack, the Cyclones surged to a 27 to 20 lead at the intermission.

Ray Wehde, who scored one point during the first half, set a blistering second-half pace, piercing the Husker defense for four field goals and three free tosses.

Kuebler Not In Suit.

The victory was accomplished without the services of the Cyclones' leading scorer, Rollin Kuebler, whose severe charley-horse kept him out of uniform.

Coach Louis Menze jerked his regulars when the Cyclone margin reached 44 to 27 near the end of the game.

Hayes led the Cyclone scorers with 13 points. Heinzelman was high for Nebraska with 10.

It was Iowa State's second straight Big Six victory and Nebraska's first defeat in three conference games. The score:

Porto Ricans Slap Fine On Cubs' Pitcher

SAN JUAN, P. R. Jan. 19-(INS) Hi Bithorn, Chicago Cubs pitcher who is managing a local baseball team during the off-season, today was fined $20 and suspended for 10 days because of an argument with an umpire on Jan. 10.

Hiram Bithorn was one of the Cub's standout hurlers last season and the one who figured most prominently in the famous beanball duel with the Brooklyn Dodgers in the heat of the National league pennant race.

He was fined $25 by President Ford Frick during July when he hurled the ball into the Dodger dugout at Chicago in retaliation for a riding he had been subjected to throughout a tense ball game.

Lure of Baseball Unchanged

—STARS IN WAR; GAME GOES ON—

BY LAWTON CARVER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(INS)—There is a feeling among our better baseball minds, if any, that baseball is going to be artistically inferior next season because so many standout stars have been lost to the services, but I doubt that the change will be apparent to any save the most discerning of experts. That lets me out, along with you and about 99¾ of every 100 fans, all of whom will have their fun with the firm conviction that everything is all right. We won't know the difference, once we get used to the absence of Terry Moore, Joe Dimaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Johnny Pesky and the others of that elite baseball breed.

And everything will be all right, as a matter of fact, whether the season lasts only until July or goes all the way to the finish, for the game won't be any the less thrilling and may be even more interesting because of the chance that the leagues will be better balanced. All have been hard hit. The standout clubs have lost the standout stars who made them click. They only hope they can hang on to enough of the rest to keep going.

They All Look Alike.

Any change in the quality of the game will be scarcely noticeable day-by-day. On nine plays out of 10, the Dimaggios and the Moores look much like any other ball player, and it is the extreme occasional chance that makes them great afield. Yet their successors will put as much thrill into it for most of us. A few observers will try to spoil it all, no doubt, by remembering aloud after a heroic effort by Center Fielder Joe Blow, late of the Sally league, that Dimaggio used to go all the way to the flag pole and catch them in his hip pockets. However, there is an answer to that.

Old Joe certainly did—but how often did he get a chance like that?

And the hitting of the standouts is not calculated to be such a noticeable loss either, for the less able hitters should be able to do better than usual now that they will be confronting less able pitchers. Moreover, it is the hitting over a season that counts. The best of them might go to bat for a week without even getting a loud foul.

Losses Evenly Spread.

If they had lost only pitchers, or only hitters, the majors really could be prepared for some fireworks, for the defensive or offensive would have been hard-hit, while as it is the losses have been evenly spread among all positions and all ball clubs. I don't think the difference in baseball next season and the past will cause anybody to stay away from the parks—until they run entirely out of players, which is a possibility.

There is a possibility, too, that the tougher teams have been so softened up that the American league race will be a race, unlike anything we've seen except for one or two seasons in the last 10, and the National league race will be a knockdown-dragout for a half dozen clubs instead of just two.

Different From Ring Racket.

The point I seem to be trying to make is that baseball in any given classification—in this case the major leagues—is a little different from most sports, especially boxing for instance.

There is an immediately obvious difference between a great fighter and a poor one. When you get away from greatness, there is a sharp decline to the kind we have around now, most of them strictly third-rate with their lack of ability noticeable in everything they do. Put two of them together and you get twice as much of the same.

I think the baseball fan's only worry should be how much baseball he will be able to see next season—and not how good it will be.

More than 200 major leaguers are in the services already and if about half that many more go, it won't be a question of quality at all. There simply won't be any more baseball.

Canada Belter Wins Title As Feather King

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 19—(AP)—A lot of folks will tell you today that Jackie Callura is the new head man of the featherweights—at least part of 'em—but the champ really is your old Uncle Samuel.

There's no doubt that the little belting bull from Canada climbed all over the Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson to take the National Boxing association's portion of the 126-pound crown in the providence arena last night, but now he has to wait on your old uncle's say-so gefore he's going to be able to find out what he can do with it.

Stymied By Uncle Sam.

For Uncle Sam already has the finger on Wilson, who has been guaranteed the first shot at Callura's crown, and he also has his eagle eye on Willie Pep, the whizz-bang from Connecticut, who has the title blessing of the New Yory state athletic commission. With Wilson slated to be wearing a soldiers suit in the next few weeks, and Pep awaiting his draft classification, Callura's going to have to look for quite a piece to find any worthy challengers around—at least any who figure to draw more than coffee and cakes at the gate.

SURGEONS OPERATE ON WHITE SOX PILOT

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19—(INS)—Jimmy Dykes, 46, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was "batting 1000" today after he parted company with his seven famous gallstones at Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

Bothered by the ailment for several years, the colorful Pale Hose bossman had put off an operation each winter. Instead, as he joked, "I came to California to sit in solitude and count my precious gallstones."

Dykes will be in the hospital for about 10 days, his doctors said.

TRACK SEEKS PERMIT FOR SUMMER RACING

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(INS)—Basing his action upon the hope that "the present gasoline restrictions may be modified before the time comes for the opening of the spring meeting," Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Narragansett Racing association, applied for racing dates in 1943.

The application, filed with John E. Martin, racing administrator of Rhode Island, requests dates for two meetings—April 10 to May 8, and Aug. 9 to Sept. 25, covering 67 days of racing.

Feller Plans Stick In Game

—Back to Baseball After War—

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP)—Mrs. Robert Feller is certain she will be able to cook for her husband, although she thinks the appetite of the former Cleveland pitcher is the largest she has ever seen.

"I told him before we were married that no doubt he'd have to live on fudge, cokes and chicken salad," she said, "but already he is asking for steaks."

The Fellers were married at Waukegan, Ill., Saturday evening and are honeymooning on the 10-day furlough granted the 24-year-old bridegroom from his duties as chief boatswain's mate in the U. S. navy.

Feller said he had not handled a baseball since last August and did not believe his naval duties would permit him to do more than "warm up once or twice and do a little running this spring."

Expects to Resume

He was certain, however, that he would return to baseball after the war with all his previous effectiveness.

"I've read somewhere," he said, "that military service develops new muscles and causes different muscular reactions that may ruin the careers of athletes. I don't think that is true in my case. I think I'll be ready to play ball again if I can keep my legs in shape."

And what did the 5-foot 2-inch, 90-pound bride think of the fame won by her 6-foot 1-inch, 191-pound husband?

"Oh, my goodness. I just think of him as Bobby, that's all. He's like a different person when I see his picture in the paper. We first met in 1940 when he came to Flordia for spring training and I was attending Rollins college.

"When I saw him I was so supprised. I had always thought all baseball players were old men."

Out on Limb in Derby

—Prophet Picks Count—

By JACK MAHON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(INS)—The day was as dark as a certain dictator's future when out of an envelope we plucked a sports release that filled the room with the fresh, clean smell of blue grass, changed the clacking rhythm of the typewriter keys to the thumping thud of horses' hooves and carried us, in reverie, back to Louisville for another running of the famed Kentucky Derby.

Each year about this time, the "man" comes around. His name is Frank Menke and his job is to convince the waiting world that the impending Derby will be even greater than the many great races that have already filled its colorful history.

MENKE AT IT AGAIN.

Maybe Col. Matt Winn, aged director of the race, has rationed Brother Menke this year. Frank's typewriter still is clicking, however, and it was the first of his releases that fell out on our desk today and prompted us to pass along a little information we know you will all appreciate.

It simply is this. Count Fleet will win the 1943 derby.

There it is, brother. We have never been in the habit of stringing along with winter book favorites in the Blue Grass classic and the Count seems a cinch to wind up the choice when, and if, any of those generous gentlemen begin accepting wagers this year.

COUNT FLEET HAS CINCH.

This time, however, we are convinced the favorite is a cinch. We saw every good two-year-old in the country last season and the Count was by far the best.

The son of Reigh Count is an imposing-looking fellow which apparently has wintered well, for Trainer Don Cameron has him en route to Oaklawn, Hot Springs, for the first trials of his three-year-old career.

The Count won 10 races, was second four times and third once in 15 starts as a juvenile, taking down $75,245 in purses and streaking a mile in 1:34 4-5 seconds at Belmont Park to establish a new world's record for two-year-olds.

Eastern Boxer Goes West to Grab Decision

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19—(INS)—Lulu Costantino, the New York lightweight, last night won a 10-round decision over favored Ray Lunny of San Francisco. Lunny weighed in at 132½ pounds, Costantino at 128.

The fight was fast from the opening bell and neither battler could make it one-sided. Costantino's victory was popular with the $11,000 house. Unofficial scoring gave Costantino five rounds, Lunny three and two were called even.

The New Yorker was extremely elusive and outdid Lunny at his own specialties, the left jab and hook. There were no knockdowns, although both fighters were slightly gory after the first round. The A. W. V. S. benefited by 15 per cent of the gate.

HICKEY BEARS DOWN ON BLUEJAY CAGERS

OMAHA, Jan. 19—(AP)—Coach Eddie Hickey, "keenly disappointed" at his undefeated Creighton Bluejays' slowdown in the second half of their Saturday night basketball game with Oklahoma A. & M., is determined it won't happen again when the Jays tangle with Drake at Des Moines Thursday night.

Hickey put the Jays through one of the longest practice sessions of the season yesterday, and remarked "I tried to see if we could play 40 minutes of fast basketball instead of 30. I was keenly disappointed in our slowdown against the Aggies. We did all right for 30 minutes, but in the last 10 we slowed to a walk. As it turned out, it didn't matter, but we can't take a chance on a repetition."

Fence-Breaker Silent About His Army Plans

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19-(INS)—Joe Dimaggio, New York Yankee fence-buster, was visiting in Los Angeles today—but he refused to confirm reports that he would enlist in the army air corps at the nearby Santa Ana air center.

"My draft board is in San Francisco," the outfielder said, somewhat hotly. "It's up to my draft board. That's all I can say at the present time."

Dimaggio "kissed and made up" with his wife, the former Dorothy Arnold, last week in Reno, where she had pitched camp the second time for a possible divorce. Shortly after their reconciliation, Dimaggio said that he intended to join the army air corps.

Mrs. Dimaggio and their child were accompanying the ball player today.

Meanwhile, officials at Santa Ana said they had heard reports of Joe's possible enlistment, but that he had not made contact with them. Officers pointed out that because all enlistments are closed, Dimaggio would have to enter the service as a specialist.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By WALTER KIERNAN.

The Ruml tax plan has more fingerprints on it than the roller towel in a cafeteria.

First the treasury made notes in the margin, then congress turned it over and wrote a new plan on the back.

We are going to have pay-as-you-go but any resemblance between the original and the fine print will be discovered as we go along.

Ruml offered a plan which was no more complicated than a pocket comb.

That was the first point against it.

Before opening the envelope the treasury announced that it wouldn't do. Then, holding it upside down, the treasury said it might do with some changes.

Ruml wanted to start collecting 1943's taxes in 1943.

The treasury said it wouldn't forgive 1942's taxes. We can get tough too. We can refuse to forgive the treasury for '39, '40 and '41.

Thought for the day: Watch for pay-before-you-go.

In South Africa one white man out of every seven is in the armed forces.

Nearly one-third of the land in Yugoslavia is forest; more than half the land is cultivated.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

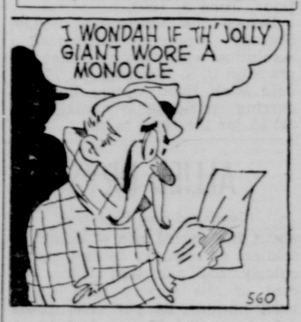
By Prof J. D. Flint



The eyes have it! At least that's what the man thought who, in the days of giants and fairy tales, met the terrible giant who had only one eye. The terrible giant imprisoned the man in the dungeon of his castle (isn't that the way the old stories go?) and left him there for a long time. It happened that the only good thing about the giant was his great love for Brain Twizzlers. As a result, when he confronted the man, the giant looked him straight in the eyes and said, "I have but one eye, you have two. Yet my one eye can see more than your two can." The man was mentally alert (because he was a Brain Twizzler, of course) so he just laughed and replied, "That's easy, the answer is—" How could the giant see more, under the conditions, than the man could?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler.

The elevator operator stepped into the car and found, of course, that it was no longer empty so he could only get one person into the elevator under the conditions.

FARMERS FEEDING 20% MORE CATTLE

Twenty per cent more cattle are being fed in Nebraska this year as compared to last year, the state-federal division of agricultural statistics reported. Corn belt states as a whole show an 8 per cent increase. There are 360,000 head of cattle on feed at the present time.

Reports indicate a smaller proportion of heavy feeders and a larger proportion of medium-weight feeders, with about the same proportion to be marketed during January and February, about the same proportion in March and larger proportions in April and later months. A year ago there was a relatively larger carry-over of long-fed cattle which resulted in increased marketings during the first quarter of 1942.

Your Federal Income Tax

Credit for Dependents.

A taxpayer is entitled to a credit for each person other than husband or wife, whether related to him or not, and whether living with him or not, who during the taxable year was dependent upon and received his chief support from the taxpayer, provided the dependent was either (a) under 18 years of age or (b) incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The credit for dependents is based upon actual financial dependency and not mere legal dependency. It is not necessary that the dependent be related to the taxpayer, but the taxpayer must have provided more than one-half of the support, or there is no dependency.

The term 'mentally or physically defective" includes not only those who are mentally afflicted and physically crippled, but also persons who, by reason of old age or impaired health, are incapable of self-support. The state of mental or physical defect need not be of a permanent nature, but if it existed for only a portion of the year, then the credit for dependent can be claimed only for that portion of the year during which the dependent was supported by the taxpayer.

A person may not acquire a credit for dependents by reason of support of a person qualifying as a dependent if, as a result of such support, he acquires a head of family exemption, but may acquire a credit for dependents by reason of additional persons qualifying as dependents, whom he supports. Thus if a person claims head of family exemption on account of support of an aged mother or father, incapable of self-support, or a child, he would not be entitled to a credit for such dependent; but if he supported more than one such person he could claim credit for such additional persons provided they were under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support.

Credit for dependents may not be divided between two persons filing separate returns, but must be taken by the one contributing the chief support. A credit for dependents may be claimed by a father who provides the support for his children living with his divorced wife, if the support is provided as the result of a court decree or as the result of an agreement between husband and wife.

The credit for a dependent, allowable to a taxpayer filing on Form 1040, is $350, and is proportionate with the number of months of dependency. Thus, for a child born on July 1, the credit allowable would be $175 (for six months), and if a child became 18 years of age on July 1, the credit allowable would be $175. One-half a month or less is not counted as a month; more than one-half a month is counted as a month in calculating the credit.

A credit of $385 for each dependent on July 1 of the year is allowable to a taxpayer using Simplified Form 1040A.

About 56 per cent of the white population of South Africa is of Dutch descent.

CORN HIGHER AND WHEAT IS LOWER

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 19—(AP)—Strength in corn futures today helped boost oats and rye also, but wheat held within a narrow range. Corn prices extended the advance to almost a cent and the market continued firm up to the close.

Weather conditions were held responsible for the firmness of the coarse cereal as traders said county shipments continued light. The principal demand for corn came from cash interests and commission houses. The July contracts sold up to within 1 cent of the ceiling limits near the close.

In the closing few minutes wheat futures broke around ½ under Monday's quotations.

Corn closed ⅜ to ¾ cents higher, May 98⅜@¾c, July 99@99⅛c; wheat ⅜ to ⅝ cents lower, May $1.39⅛@1.39, July, $1.39; oats were ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower; rye unchanged to ¼ cent up; and soybeans ¼ cent off.

Routine Audit of Books Asked By Supt. Turner

Routine business was conducted at the county commissioners meeting Tuesday, in which the only reference to the previous days final vote on the budget levy was made when Commissioner Clinton Mitchell said, "I can take a licking."

Several claims were presented and recorded.

Superintendent of Schools Glenn Turner made a formal request for an audit of his office, stating that he believed such procedure was customary at the time a new office-holder took over his duties.

FIRST GENERAL SLIDE IN WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP)—That technical correction, which market analysts lately have been forecasting, appeared today and leading stocks suffered their first general decline in more than a week.

Trends were irregularly improved at the start but there was no follow-through and in fair-sized selling after mad-day, early plus signs were erased for the majority of favorites. In the final hour, losses, of fractions to more than a point were widespread. While dealings slowed near the close, transfers were around 800,000 shares.

Actually, the news budget was bullish marketwise. Scattered peace-rated stocks edged upward in the forenoon, apparently in further reflection of the consistently growing advantage of th eallies over the axis. These wavered eventually without taking on any real weakness. Light investment demand continued as a prop for individual performers.

Standard Oil I(N. J.) and American Can managed to post new 1942-43 tops before slipping.

Backward shifters included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Great Northern, American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Airlines, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda, J. I. Case, Oliver Farm and General Electric.

Bonds retreated with stocks.

Strikers Ordered To Return By President

showing in both cases had the effect of ending the strikes without violence. The first was in the North American aviation case in California early in 1941. Last year the military was assigned to the General Cable Co. strike at Bayonne, N. J. Workers went back to their jobs almost immediately.

(Some members of the war labor board expressed belief that the same pattern could be used effectively in the anthracite situation if normal production is not resumed in the next 48 hours, but would not venture a prediction.)

12,350 Remain Idle After 5,000 Return

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 19—(AP)—With presidential intervention believed imminent, nearly 5,000 striking miners returned to their jobs in Pennsylvania's anthracite field today in the largest-back-to-work movement since the wildcat walkout began three weeks ago.

However, about 12,350 insurgents still remained idle, including 1,400 employes of the Glen Alden Coal Co.'s South Wilkes-Barre colliery which failed to reopen despite a vote by the UMW local there yesterday to resume operations.

The largest break in the ranks of the strikers came when 2,700 workers took up their jobs again at the Eddy Creek, Miles Clope and grassy island collieries of the Hudson Coal Co. in the Scranton area.

Report On Schacht Death

The death of Arnold H. Schacht, 36-year-old fireman who collapsed recently at an Omaha induction center and passed away within a few hours, was caused by an intestinal hemorrhage, according to a statement submitted Tuesday to County Attorney Max Towle by the state public health laboratories. Schacht died last Dec. 22.

40 Percent Tax On Hotel Rooms Visioned for Relief

...Whose Relief Not Certain

Senators Elmer Rakow and Don Hanna bobbed up Tuesday with a bill to provide revenue for the assistance fund, but the gesture hardly had the relief program "at heart."

Their measure would tax hotel room charges above $2.50 per day by 40 per cent. Thus, a $5 per day room would be taxed $1.

The revenue thus derived would be pegged for the assistance fund.

"We estimate $1,000,000 would be raised annually," smiled Rakow.

"Don't you mean biennially?" questioned Hanna.

"No, annually," countered Rakow.

Asked if the hotel men in the state wouldn't raise up in arms concerning this bill," Rakow laughed:

"No, I believe they probably will be for it."

Housing conditions in Lincoln which have forced many senators into paying hotel rates appeared to be in back of this "heckling" procedure.

However, neither senator would admit the same. Each merely smiled a little broader.

AXIS IS ROCKED ON THREE WARFRONTS

cess in his threatening drive toward Alexandria and the Suez canal last summer.

Italian headquarters said Tripoli itself was under violent allied aerial assault, with repeated raids inflicting great property damage and killing numerous civilians.

The fascist communique said Italian and German troops "offered fierce resistance to persistent enemy pressure" and caused serious losses to the British.

Spectacular Advance.

Even before news of this spectacular British advance became known, dispatches from allied headquarters in north Africa suggested that Rommel, with an army of possibly 110,000 men, might abandon Tripoli and fall back to fortified positions in Tunisia.

Rommel's best bet, military analysts said, would be to establish the strongest possible bridgehead in Tunisia to exert some measure of control over the Sicilian channel bottleneck in the Mediterranean and thus hamper any allied attack against the "under side" of Europe from north Africa.

Lone Allied Setback.

The lone allied setback appeared to be on the Tunisian front, where dispatches from united nations headquarters said "the enemy gained some ground southwest of Pont Du Fahs."

Pont Du Fahs lies 30 miles below Tunis, the axis-held capital of Tunisia.

A communique said allies and axis also clashed in "infantry and armored engagements" in the region of Bou Arada-Goubellat south of Medjez El Bab, and the enemy was twice driven off.

Axis Ring Broken.

In the Russian campaign, soviet war workers shouted and hugged each other in exultation as loudspeaker systems flashed the announcement that Leningrad's 1,000,000 residents, cut off from the world since August, 1941, had reached the end of their long ordeal.

Dispatches said two soviet columns—one striking eastward from Leningrad, the other westward from the Volkhov river—had cut a five-mile-wide corridor to the northern metropolis.

Marshals Gregory K. Zhukov and Klementi Voroshilov were credited with developing the strategy which broke the nazi siege ring and dealt another staggering blow to German military prestige and morale.

Battle In Terrible Cold.

Soviet reports said the red armies, battling in terrible cold and some times in waist-deep snow, were now hammering the nazi invasion armies into retreat along a 1,200-mile front from Leningrad to the Caucasus.

Heavy battles were reported raging in seven major sectors—Leningrad, Velikie Luki, Voronezh, Stalingrad, north of Rostov, east of Rostov, and in the Caucasus.

Soviet headquarters said the red armies attacking below Voronezh had advanced within 118 miles of the great Kharkov steel center, after capturing Aleksyeevka, Rossosh and Karpenkovo, and declared that axis prisoners on this front alone now totaled 31,000.

Nazis Leave Equipment

"The enemy is retreating abandoning equipment and large quantities of army property," the Russian command said, referring to the drive on Kharkov, and reported that more than 1,000 trucks "in good running order" had fallen into soviet hands along a single road.

Other Red army troops driving down the railway to Rostov, in a thrust aimed at cutting off the "escape corridor" of perhaps 500,000 axis troops in southern Russia, were officially reported to have captured the Kamensk railway station and fought their way into the city.

Kamensk is only 85 miles north of Rostov.

East of Rostov, on the lower Don river, the Russians were meeting stiff resistance, but below the Don the Red army's big guns were reported within shelling range of nazi-held Salsk.

Russian troops driving back north through the Caucasus toward Rostov were thrusting along the Rostov-Baku rail line within 70 miles of Amavir, key junction east of the German-held Maikop oil fields.

Drive On Meat Black Markets Being Plotted

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19—(AP)—The office of price administration was reported today shaping up a nationwide drive against "black market" operations in sale and distribution of meat.

John C. Gruener, regional OPA attorney, disclosed that national and regional OPA representatives had met here to set up a program to eliminate illegal meat sales, but withheld retails because he said they involved methods of "tracking down" meat bootleggers.

Christian Endeavor Union Installs New Officers

Newly-elected officers of the Christian Endeavor Union of Lincoln were installed at a recent meeting at the Ebenezer Congregational church.

Marian Herzog, the new president, took office, along with the following other officers: Helen Snyder, vice president; Martha Kildau, secretary; Helen Reifschneider, treasurer; Florence Bock, song leader; and Ruth Schmidt, reporter.

Guest speaker of the evening was Rev. Leland Lesher, pastor of Grace Lutheran church. The program also included a short service in honor of the men who have entered the armed services.

EXCUSED JUROR

MISS ELAINE FORBES, slender secretary, lost her place on the jury hearing the Errol Flynn trial. She was accused of saying she "had to get on that Flynn jury" and that she would convict him.

FLYNN TRIAL BACK IN SWING AFTER JUROR REPLACED

...Miss Forbes Removed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—(INS)—The Errol Flynn trial returned to full swing today after a protracted delay, ended when Superior Judge Leslie E. Still excused one juror from the panel, hearing the attack charges of two teen-age girls against the screen star, and ordered one of the two alternate jurors to occupy the vacant seat.

The change was made by stipulation of opposing counsel, after nearly a full day of discussion in Judge Still's chambers. Deputy Distict Attorney John Hopkins simultaneously withdrew a motion by the state calling for a mistrial.

Showgirl To Testify.

As the trial spun full-speed ahead again, the prosecution tentatively had a personal appearance scheduled on the witness stand late today for Peggy La Rue Satterlee, 17-year-old showgirl.

She was expected to make her formal debut at the trial after two officers testify, completing the state's evidence on the first count involving blonde Betty Hansen, 17-year-old Lincoln girl. The Hansen girl charged that she was attacked by Flynn in the bedroom of a Bel-Air mansion last Sept. 21.

The excused juror was Miss Elaine Forbes, slender secretary, accused in affidavits given by three members of the venire of prejudice.

Judge still told Miss Forbes, however, that the qualifications of the jurors were not gone into during the lengthy discussions, and that her excusal was not in any way to be considered a reflections upon her.

Housewife New Juror.

Into her chair as number five juror was called Mrs. Alice F. Chalfant, brunette young housewife and mother of two children. The jury thus retained its strong feminine complexion of nine women and three men.

Britain Can Be Confident In Next Year

...ATTLEE DECLARES

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (AP) — Clement R. Attlee, deputy prime minister, told the opening session of parliament today that Great Britain could "look forward to 1943 with justifiable confidence," and that the successes scored by the allied nations last year were to be viewed with "sober satisfaction."

In a brief statement on the war situation pending an anticipated complete review by Prime Minister Churchill within the next few days, Attlee lauded the "wonderful achievements" of the Russian army and said "it looks as if none of the great forces (before Stalingrad) will escape from the trap."

Weather Restricts Action.

Describing the allied objective in north Africa as total destruction of enemy forces, he told commons that bad weather in Tunisia had restricted movement of motorized forces and had "seriously affected the provisions of airfields."

"We have every confidence in Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. Anderson and the men of the forces, he said.

Referring to reports of differences between the British and Americans over the political lineup in north Africa, Attlee declared it was only natural that French affairs should not appear in the same light to the two allied nations, but added that "such variations of outlook . . . ought not be exaggerated."

"Everybody Co-operating."

"Everyone there is cooperating," he asserted. "French civil authorities are cooperating fully with the allied forces, just as French troops are fighting alongside ours in Tunisia."

No secondary or personal consideration should prevent a union of French factions, Attlee continued. He said he welcomed the appointment of Gen. Henri Honore Giraud as high commissioner of French north and west Africa, and at the same time he acknowledged a "great debt" to Gen. Charles DeGaulle, leader of the fighting French.

Turning to the war in the southwest Pacific, the deputy leader said the government "is conscious there is an accumulation of Japanese forces at Rabaul (on New Britain island) and every step it being taken to deal with that menace."

"Thunder Rock" At Wesleyan Jan. 29-30

Committee Hearings

Reduction In Capitol Mail Cost Is Urged

A central mail station and a stamping machine were discussed by the unicameral's appropriations committee Monday as that group gave tentative approval to biennium stipends for the state fire marshal and banking departments.

The same amount as was appropriated last session—$35,000—was allowed the fire marshal's office. A request had been made for an additional $5,000. All of the revenue is accumulated through fees.

The request of $158,100 for the banking department, which also was recommended by the governor, was approved, but only half of the department's $20,000 of unexpended balance was allowed.

Blaine Yoder, state purchasing agent, told the group a stamp machine could be purchased and he was asked to arrange for an interview with a representative of the company manufacturing such equipment.

Mail Expense Heavy.

An average of $7,500 a month is spent for mailing by all state house offices. Yoder said he believed from 20 to 50 per cent could be saved by using the machine.

Hand operated equipment would cost $350, while a motor driven machine would run about $2,000.

Wade Martin, director of the banking department, in appearing before the committee told the group Nebraska's banks are in the best condition they have been for 20 years.

There are 273 state banks in Nebraska, 10 additional voluntarily liquidated themselves during the past year. Only four banks are in receivership at this time.

Puzzle About Vote Records Is Solved

Conflict as to disposition of election records has been settled by the attorney general's office, in an opinion furnished to Secretary of State Frank Marsh. The counties of the state have hesitated to send the secretary of state the poll sheets from initiative and referendum elections because another law provides that the records must be kept in the county.

The attorney general's office says that poll books are one thing and poll sheets another. The latter, which are records of voters, are used in initiative and referendum elections and they are the records authorized to be sent to Lincoln. Duplicates are to be kept in the county.

Nelson School Head Leaves For Chicago

(Special to The Star.)

NELSON, Jan. 19—J. O. Weyand, superintendent of the Nelson public schools for the past two and a half years, recently resigned to accept a position in the engineering department of a Chicago manufacturing company.

Before coming here Mr. Weyand was principal of the Sutton high school. Prior to that he was a member of the Marquette high school faculty.

Educational Bills Given Endorsement

Two educational measures were reported out to general file. One would authorize boards of junior colleges to suspend operations for any school year during the war and then reopen, without jeopardy, by Sept. 1, 1947.

The education committee also endorsed the measure which would empower the Omaha university board of regents to provide benefits for and insurance of present and future employes payable upon retirement or death.

Provided in the measure was that the district shall not contribute to exceed five per cent of a like amount of teachers' salaries.

Several persons interested in teacher retirement were present.

Bill Would Let Wife Testify Against Spouse.

The legislature's judiciary committee reported one bill out to general file and delayed action on three others.

LB 42, introduced by Senator Walter Raecke, which provides either husband or wife may be a competent witness against the other in crimanl prosecutions, was reported out.

Herbert White, Omaha, spoke in favor of the bill. He pointed out that in incest cases about the only corroborative testimony available would come from the wife.

No action was taken on LB 63, the uniform machine gun bill; LB 46, the small estates act; and LB 59, which provides the procedure in estates of minors and incompetents of amounts under $100.

Council Paves Way For Shutting Down City's Gas Station

Under the provisions of an emergency ordinance unanimously approved by the city council Monday, the council now has authority to "limit the hours for the sale of gasoline or coal," at the municipal coal and gasoline stations. The council also has authority to suspend the sale of either or both commodities "for such time as the council may deem proper."

Limiting the sale, or suspension of activities altogether, may be accomplished, according to the ordinance, through passage by the council of a resolution.

Passage of the amendment is believed to be a prelude to the council on Monday of next week suspending the sale of gasoline. If that is done it will be a stop-loss measure. The gasoline business has been losing money for several months, and since rationing has become effective the losses have been increasing.

One-Man Job.

A week ago, Director Cobe S. Venner, under whose jurisdiction the stations are being operated, told the council one man can take care of the coal business and watch the gasoline station also, should it be operated on a part time basis. Two men are employed regularly. The second will be employed elsewhere, by the city if the station is suspended or placed on a part time basis.

The council directed the clerk to advertise for bids on property damage and public liability insurance covering the city's 145 pieces of motorized equipment. The premium for the year just ending was $1,190. The new year begins February 8, and councilmen are expecting a bid lower than the cost for the present year.

The resolution authorizing the call for bids says that the property damage clause shall provide coverage up to $5,000. The public liability coverage must be for from $5,000 to $10,000.

A junk dealers license was granted to Breslow Auto Wrecking Co., First and P streets.

Following a hearing, the council referred to the legal department for recommendation the application of Harold Martin, a member of the fire department, for a fireman's pension for one month.

Martin, under questioning by Deputy City Attorney Whitworth, told the council he applied for the pension only besause others have received pensions under the same conditions that prevail in his case. He referred to firemen who, because of a ruling of the state Supreme court, have been paid both pension and compensation for time lost because of injuries in line of duty.

Martin said he was hurt on February 2, 1941, while fighting a fire, and went to a hospital in March. He received compensation at the rate of $15 a month, he said, but received no salary as did the others. The fact that others got their salary, which in such cases constitutes a pension, made him believe he also was entitled to pay for the one month he did not receive it, he said.

Council Says 'No' To Second Floor Dancing

...Until Safety Measures Taken

There will be no more dancing on the second floors of buildings in Lincoln, where ample provision has not been made for rapid emptying of the room in the event of fire. That is a policy set up by the council Monday.

An unwritten policy established by the council is to the effect that licenses for public dances will not be granted where the location is close to a church. This was brought out when an application for a permit filed by E. Garner for 1732 O street was denied. There is a church almost directly across the street.

The position taken by the council on adequate fire escape facilities for second floor ballrooms also applies to dance halls and ballrooms on the first floor. This came out when the application of John C. Fox for a license to operate a public dance in the Cornhusker hotel ballroom was deferred.

Frown On License

The council has been considering some time the prohibition of dancing on second floors in any building. The matter was brought to a focus Monday, however, when Fire Chief Paul Feaster, and A. E. Vorhees, chief building inspector, recommended revoking the license held by P. W. Jewett, at Tenth and N streets.

Accompanying the recommendation was a report of the conditions at that location. The report said the building is "substantially" wood. The stairway entrance is on the N street side. Enclosed, the stairs "run through a wallpaper store, and could not be used in case of a serious fire in the lower part of the building," the report states. Neither "could the fire escape on the east end in the alley be used, as a ventilator and window open into it."

In the opinion of the fire chief and the building inspector, the building should be provided with a large fireproof stairway "direct to the street." Changes also should be made in the fire escape to make it available for use, the report states, because of the present "danger to life and property" in the event of a fire in the building "while there is a crowd in the dance hall."

Make Recommendations

It is the belief of the fire chief and building inspector that before a license is granted for a public dance in the Cornhusker ballroom there should be a large double door near the south end of the west wall. The doors should open to the outside and be equipped with "panic bars and exit lights," the recommendation declared.

"If these recommendations are complied with," the letter adds, the ballroom will be a safe place to hold public dances."

Discussion of this letter brought out that members of the council will insist on the installation requested, "not only for the safety of dancers, but for the safety of large crowds attending banquets there." They do not anticipate any trouble, as they are convinced that as soon as the hotel management is advised of what is done the changes will be made as soon as possible.

The letter regarding conditions at Tenth and N streets was referred to City Attorney Max Kier, with instructions to take steps looking to remedying of the shortcomings complained about in the letter from the inspectors.

Immediately following adjournment of the council, Kier sent a letter to the licensee asking for a conference, out of which it is hoped the building will be remodeled to comply with the recommendations, or that Jewett will obtain a first floor location.

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (AP) — Twenty Belgian hostages were executed by the Germans during December in reprisal for the killing of three German soldiers in Belgium and attacks on Belgian collaborators, the free Belgian news agency said today.

It also reported that the Germans were offering rewards totaling $65,000 for the arrest of the killers of two German soldiers in Brussels recently.

Lincoln Mayor Says Oil Rationing Order 'Impossible Problem'

...At K. C. Hearing

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 19—(AP)—Mayor Richard O. Johnson of Lincoln, Neb., told a special senate committee on the midwest fuel problem that the Nebraska capital was encountering difficulties in carrying out government fuel orders.

His testimony Monday was supported by that of mayors and civic representatives from a half dozen Missouri and Kansas cities, who related it was virtually impossible to convert from fuel oil and gas to coal in their areas.

Johnson said consumption of coal, oil and gas was divided about evenly in Lincoln.

Senator Clyde M. Reed (R-Kas), the only member of the committee present at the opening of the four-day regional hearing, described the fuel situation as acute in eastern Kansas and western Missouri.

Wallace and Chandler Study Russian; Visit To Moscow Is Possible

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Vice President Wallace and Senator Chandler (D-Ky.) are studying Russian.

Asked about a Russian grammar lying on his desk, Chandler told reporters that he and Wallace were pupils of a former Russian soldier of the first World war who now is with the maritime commission.

There has been some talk of President Roosevelt sending the vice president on a mission to Moscow, and while Chandler declined to comment, friends said his study of the language was pretty good indication that he would like to go along, as a member of the senate military affairs committee.

6,534 RATION BOOKS STOLEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP)—Police and federal agents today investigated the theft of 6,534 rationing books, representing approximately 1,500,000 gallons of gasoline, from a west side rationing board office.

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago area director of the OPA, said all gasoline service stations in the city were notified of the serial numbers of the stolen books and were requested to be on the alert for users.

Wage Adjustments Are Up to Regional Board, States King

...1,672 Protests Field

While the national wage and salary control program took effect October 3, employers and employes in the six midwest states including Nebraska already have filed 1,672 requests for jurisdictional rulings on proposed adjustments.

In so reporting today at the district office in Kansas City, Mo., Walter W. King, regional director of the wage and hour and public contracts division of the U. S. department of labor said, "Our ruling as to the necessity for board approval on an adjustment is final, subject to review by the board."

"My advice to employers" King added," is that employers contemplating adjustments 'check it with us first, to avoid danger of violations."

The need of supplying all data asked for in the first form the first time was stressed to avoid delay. The flow of applications is increasing. Individual employes as well as employers are entitled to seek rulings. WLB has jurisdiction over all wages and over salaries up to $5,000 a year except those of administrative executive and professional employes who are not represented by a recognized labor union. The secretary of agriculture has authority over farm wages. An office of the wage-hour division is located at Omaha.

—5 JAPS EACH—

11 Yanks Credited As 'Aces'

...In Southwest Pacific

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 19 — (AP) — Eleven American fighter pilots have become "aces" on being credited officially with the destruction of at least five enemy aircraft by Lieut. Gen. George Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific area.

Capt. Andrew J. Reynolds of Seminole, Okla., is the leading ace of the southwest Pacific command, according to the official record, with 10 victories. Reynolds' squadron also is credited with the greatest number of victories of any American squadron with 45 enemy planes destroyed.

"Buzz" Wagner Got 8.

Second ranking ace on the roster is Capt. George Kiser of Somerset, Ky., with nine enemy planes shot down. His squadron, with 41 victories over the Japanese, is the third ranking squadron.

Capt. Thomas J. Lynch of Cataseuqua, Pa., was ranked third for having shot down eight enemy planes in combat. His squadron, with 39 planes, stood fourth.

The late Lieut. Col. Boyd E. (Buzz) Wager of Johnston, Pa., also was credited with having shot down eight enemy planes before he returned to the United States.

Credited with seven planes each were:

Capt. William J. Hennon of Mound, Minn.; Capt. James B. Morehead of Washington, Okla.; First Lieut. George S. Welch of Wilmington, Del., and Second Lieut. Kenneth C. Sparks of Blackwell, Okla.

First Lieut. Hoyt A. Eason of Eclectic Ala., and First Lieut. John Landers of Joshua, Tex., each were credited with shooting down six Japanese planes.

First Lieut. Jack Donaldson of Tulsa, Okla., with five victories, ranked as the eleventh ace of the fighter pilots.

The "cumulative official box score" being compiled by the Fifth air force headquarters is concerned with the victories only of American fighter pilots and does not include enemy planes shot down by bomber crews in this area.

Committee Of 1,000 Prepares To Attack "Excessive" Levy

...Set By County Commissioners Monday

The statistical-minded Committee of 1,000 took the news of the final county budget levy of 3.21, set by the commissioners Monday, with apparent calm. They immediately set out to prepare a report for members to show that the appropriations made for 1943 are more than the county will need, according to their secretary, M. A. Hyde. The report will be complete within a few days.

These figures will be in readiness for any interested person who may wish to use them as the basis of a court action which might be brought against the commissioners for carrying a surplus greater than the amount needed to run the county.

A court action would not arise until next August, However, Hyde explained, since the actual levy is not set until that time, following the evaluation of property in the county. The commissioners only appropriate money at this time, and their tentative levy is one which they estimate to be sufficient to raise the appropriations. Their estimate is based on property values of last year, a value which remains fairly constant from year to year.

Favored 2.25 Levy.

Hyde was unable to say whether or not the Committee of 1,000 would instigate an action, and he explained that the Committee had not met recently or indicated their intentions.

Commissioners Fred Hall and T. E. Gillaspie set the budget levy with apparent disregard of the pleas of business men and other taxpayers who asked the board to lighten the county tax burden in view of the heavy federal taxes. The Committee of 1,000 favored a levy lower than 3 mills and one of its members proposed 2.25.

Commissioner Clinton Mitchell objected loudly to the 3.21 levy and claimed that his colleagues in office were asking for $200,000 more than is necessary and would build up a more burdensome surplus than now is on hand.

He pointed out that in the budget adopted by the board $57,387 invested in war bonds is not included in the general fund so as to reduce the levy as the law requires.

Explains Objections

"You are appropriating $60,000 more for the general fund than was used in 1942, exclusive of $23,000 election expense which will not be needed this year," he told the commissioners.

"Since the expenditures of the general fund for salaries was approximately $100,000 last year," he continued, "you could give a 20 per cent increase in salaries to every employe in the county and it would not involve a greater expenditure than was made for the 1942 election.

"I object further for the reason that this levy will provide funds in the relief fund amounting to $236,000, while in 1942 there was expended for relief appropriations only $136,841. This is practically $100,000 more than was expended in 1942.

"Safe Thing"—Hall.

"When you add these sums, that is, the money invested in war bonds of over $57,000, an increased expenditure of over $60,000 in the general fund and an increased expenditure of about $100,000 in the relief fund, it seems to me that you are asking the taxpayers to provide over $200,000 more than is necessary. This will build up a burdensome surplus and will probably subject this board to a law suit, and it is doubtful that the courts will sustain this board in levying these excessive amounts."

Neither Hall nor Gillaspie had any comment following the budget meeting Monday, but previously Hall had stated: "There are a lot of things to be considered and some things these folks (referring to the delegation present at the budget hearing) don't understand. We don't know what is coming. The county has always carried a good surplus. It is a safe thing to do. I don't care to enter into any argument with anybody about it. I haven't time."
